U.S.-Stored Grain Not Taxable--Supreme Court

Ruling Supports Fayette Judge's Injunction Stand

County To Escape Headache Resulting From Refund Race

Grain held in government storage under the price - support program is not subject to tangible personal property tax, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled Wednesday afternoon as it affirmed a decision by the Ohio Board of Tax Appeals.

While the Supreme Court's decision was not based on a specific case from Fayette County, the question stemmed from a challenge of the tax that originated here and the decision supported a local court ruling which had statewide implications.

The high court said in its decision that "under terms of the note and loan agreement, wheat in storage is not the property of the producer and, therefore, not taxable."

The decision could create a headache for auditors and treasurers in every county in Ohio. For State Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers said the unanimous decision of the court made thousands of Ohio farmers eligible for refunds. He pointed out that the tax will continue to apply to grain stored by farmers not obtaining government price-support loans.

* * *

BUT THE HEADACHE in Fayette County will be mild compared to that in other counties, because it is one of the few counties—if not the only one—in which only a handful of farmers had paid the tax.

Collection of the tax since 1953 was barred here when Judge John P. Case issued a permanent injunction on Jan. 4, 1957. A few, but not many farmers had paid the tax before that.

It all started in Fayette County back in 1955, when the late Ulric Acton was auditor. Acton had told farmers not to list their stored wheat for intangible personal property tax. This action eventually was noted by the State Tax Department and a representative was sent here to make a check.

He reported that he was making up a list of farmers who had failed to pay the tax in 1953, 1954 and 1955 for the purpose of billing them for the unpaid taxes.

* * *

COUNTY TREASURER Charles A. Fabb, also contended that the tax was unlawful and asked John S. Bath, county prosecutor at that time, for his opinion. Bath said he, too, considered the tax unlawful.

The showdown came in October of 1956, when Rollo M. Marchant, attorney and farmer, and Glenn L. Smith, a farmer of the Chillicothe Rd., filed a petition for a temporary and permanent injunction against collection of the tax in Common Pleas Court.

Judge Case granted the temporary injunction Oct. 8, 1956 and a

About Million To Vote in Ohio Primary

COLUMBUS (AP) — Nearly a million Ohioans will vote in the May 6 primary elections.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown estimated today the total would be close to 950,000, an increase of more than 80,000 above the primary turnout in 1954, a non-presidential election year.

Ohio's primary election total was 869,222 four years ago.

High total for the primaries was 1,535,055 in 1952, a presidential election year when voting usually runs heavier. The primary total in 1956 was 1,222,463.

Reports showed big registration increases in Cuyahoga, Franklin and Lucas counties. Despite a drop in registrations in some counties, including Mahoning, eligibility lists remained high because of heavy voting in the 1956 presidential election. Ohioans who voted in the 1956 election still can vote this year even if they failed to cast ballots last year.

Registrations to vote hold good for two years. Twenty-one of Ohio's 88 counties require registration by all voters. Seventeen other counties require registration only in portions of their areas.

Residents of non - registration areas can vote in this year's primaries if they are 21 years old or will reach that age before next Nov. 4, date of the general election. Voters also must have lived in the state a full year and in their precinct for 40 days.

Under a Watery Blanket

THREE FEET OF WATER covers Alviso, Calif., forcing 900 persons to evacuate the town, which is 43 miles from San Francisco. The rampaging Guadalupe River was eight feet deep in some areas.

California Floods Bring Disaster Tag

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Goodwin J. Knight declared California a disaster area today as rains and snow stranded trains, marooned 200 in the Sierra Nevada and sent rivers flooding over their banks.

Four persons died — two by drowning and two others in accidents attributed to the storm.

The Southern Pacific Railroad's streamlined City of San Francisco with 97 persons aboard was stranded in a snowshed near Donner Summit in the Sierra 165 miles northeast of San Francisco.

Two avalanches of snow buried a 22-car mail train on the track ahead, stalling the crack westbound passenger train which followed. All 25 on the mail train got out but two trainmen were injured.

The "City" en route from Chicago to San Francisco, was hung up just three miles from where it was stalled in snow for days in 1952.

Some 200 persons were stranded in the mountain chain that runs along the state's western boundary —150 of them at Donner Summit Lodge. Many of them were skiers.

The governor alerted National Guardsmen in Santa Clara County, south of San Francisco, and at Stockton in the Central Valley, where flood dangers threatened.

Only light rains were forecast for today, lessening the flood threat somewhat.

Firemen Fouled Up By Big Fish Net

GALILEE, R. I. (AP)—Firemen called to put out a blaze aboard a fishing boat tied up at a pier had more trouble with a fish net than with the fire.

A big net became entangled in the wheels of a fire truck. For two hours the firemen tugged and hauled to no avail. Finally, they jacked up the truck, removed the wheels and unsnarled the net.

The fire was not serious.

Cubans Given OK To Shoot to Kill

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — President Fulgencio Batista's government today authorized workers to kill if necessary to stay on their jobs when rebel leader Fidel Castro issues his long-threatened call for a general strike.

The order, one of three of the harshest decrees in the history of the Cuban republic, was issued by Batista and his Cabinet after an all-night meeting.

A second decree barred any judge from issuing a ruling against a government official or agency or against any government or legal opposition leader. Judges who failed to obey would be immediately dismissed.

The third order said any employer who ordered a work stoppage of any kind could be jailed for up to six months.

All government ministers were authorized to issue licenses to bear arms to Cuba's 160,000 public employes and all other workers.

* * *

THE DECREE absolved workers of criminal responsibility for any steps they thought necessary —including killing—to prevent being forced into joining a strike.

The government also decreed that anyone joining a general strike would lose his job permanently. When this penalty was first applied in 1395 it quickly broke a general strike.

Despite solid support of labor union leaders for Batista, Castro claims that workers are secretly organized to follow him. He has threatened that if his rebellion succeeds, he will try for treason any officials who keep working after his strike call is issued.

Two columns of Castro's rebels were reported moving toward Santiago, attacking communications as they advanced.

A rebel communique said one column of guerrillas was approaching Santiago, Cuba's second largest city and the capital of the easternmost province of Oriente, from Castro's mountain headquarters to the west.

Another force led by Castro's brother Raul destroyed communications around the sugar mill city of Sagua de Tanamo and apparently moved on toward Santiago, 50 miles to the southwest. In contrast to the small bands which previously had swept down from the mountains, the rebels claimed 1,000 persons were in this column.

* * *

BOTH COLUMNS shot up and wrecked motor and rail transport as they advanced.

The communique said thousands of armed men from the Oriente countryside soon would march on Santiago. Batista's army reinforced its 5,000 or more men in Oriente, and officers expressed confidence they could defeat Castro if he risked an open battle. So far in his 16-month campaign to overthrow Batista, the rebel leader has stuck to hit-and-run guerrilla tactics.

U. N. Aides Eye U. S. Recession

No Upturn Expected Before Next Fall

GENEVA (AP) — The U. N. Economic Commission for Europe predicts the recession in the United States probably will run at least through autumn and Western Europe had better start doing something to help itself.

But the United States downturn was not blamed entirely for the European economic outlook. The commission reported the West European boom has been losing strength for two years, due in part to the tight money policies of most West European governments.

In its annual survey, the commission said the U.S. business downturn is bound to affect Western Europe through most of 1958 because American businessmen and consumers will be buying less all over the world.

Not only will this result in fewer U.S. purchases in Europe this year but Asian, African and Latin-American countries will buy less in Europe because their own income will be curtailed by fewer orders from the United States.

* * *

FOR THE U.S. itself, the commission forecast lower personal income and less money to buy things. An upturn "seems unlikely before autumn at the earliest," the report said.

In London, the U.S. Embassy's top economist, Edwin M. Martin, told the American Chamber of Commerce that he believes the U.S. economy will level off by summer or fall and start an upturn by December. He added that "a depression with wide international impact is not in the cards."

The 400-page report suggested that European governments with strict credit controls could relax them as one way of softening the shock of the U.S. recession.

Auto Union Shuns Wage Freeze Idea

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers has rejected American Motors' suggested two-year freeze on wages and fringe benefits for the firm's automotive workers.

The union said it "deplored the fact that American Motors seeks to put the whole or major cause of its competitive disadvantage on the shoulders of its workers."

The company told the UAW earlier it will seek new contracts to eliminate further cost-of-living allowances and the built-in annual pay raise of 6 cents an hour based on increased productivity.

House Approves New Highway Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate today a compromise $1.8 billion anti-recession highway construction bill.

Senate passage was considered certain, because the conferees on Tuesday largely accepted the Senate provisions.

House passage was by rollcall vote, 300-28.

Previously the House defeated 222-109 an attempt to send the bill back to a Senate-House conference committee for further consideration.

Voting to recommit the bill were 58 Democrats and 51 Republicans. Against were 121 Democrats and 101 Republicans.

Major difference between the original Senate and House versions was inclusion by the Senate of a provision intended to curb erection of billboards along interstate highways. This provision was retained in the compromise.

House rejection of the compromise would have precluded further action on the measure until April 14, when the congressional Easter recess starting later today ends.

Eisenhower signed the session's first antirecession bill, a $1.8 billion housing measure, Tuesday.

Highway bill opposition in the House was centered on the provision for regulation of billboards along the 41,000-mile network of expressways now being built—the interstate system.

The House member reported that "I've never seen any lobbying like this since the Volstead Act. On one side you have the garden clubs, on the other the outdoor advertising industry."

The billboard provision would give incentives to the states to control advertising signs along the interstate system. For signing agreements to regulate billboards, they would be paid a bonus of one half of 1 per cent of the cost of the interstate segment covered by the agreement. This would be in addition to the 90 per cent of the cost already borne by the federal government.

News in Brief

3 Tornado Funnels Hit City in Texas

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Three tornado funnels whirled across this north Texas city Wednesday. One man was killed, two were missing and hospitals listed 13 injured.

The twisters, which struck at about 6 p. m., demolished or damaged 175 homes and business houses.

Sirens wailed a warning that was largely ignored. Hundreds braved torrential rain and hail in the streets to watch the tornadoes. Many waited until the funnels were almost upon them before diving for shelter.

One funnel struck from the northwest, counter to the path generally taken by tornadoes, and narrowly missed the downtown area. A second hit a residential area west of the city and the third struck suburban Deandale, eight miles to the east.

Most witnesses said three tornadoes hit the city and its surrounding area. The Weather Bureau said there may have been three tornadoes that converged on the city or three funnels from the same tornado cloud.

NICE, France (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill flew off to London today after a 2½-month Riviera vacation marred by an attack of pleurisy and pneumonia.

The 83 - year - old statesman waved aside assistance in boarding his plane after being helped from an auto.

His return home was approved by his doctors and is considered a good sign that Britain's wartime leader has recovered.

LONDON (AP) — A bill permitting women to sit in the House of Lords for the first time won final parliamentary approval Wednesday night. Queen Elizabeth II will sign it into law soon.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Reports from neighboring Paraguay say demonstrations were staged against President Alfredo Stroessner's dictatorship Wednesday and rebels captured four villages in the south.

Stroessner has ruled Paraguay as a one-party country since 1954.

Coal Truck Rams Flyer, 8 Are Hurt

MEDINA (AP) — A loaded coal truck rammed into the side of the Baltimore & Ohio's Chicago-bound Capitol Limited just south of nearby Lodi today, derailing 13 cars and injuring eight persons.

The derailed passenger cars remained upright, and the locomotive and first two cars were not derailed, Marshal H. M. Chapman of Lodi said.

At Lodi Hospital eight persons were brought in and six received emergency treatment and were released, a hospital spokesman said. The other two were reported in fair condition.

Marshal Chapman said the loaded coal truck, pulling a loaded trailer, was on a downgrade northbound on Ohio 76 when it struck the locomotive. He said that when he arrived, the truck driver and his helper were walking along the tracks, bleeding severely. He took both to the hospital.

Passengers on the train were removed to another train to continue their westbound trip.

The derailment was caused when the truck-diesel collision knocked the rails out of line and one of the coaches turned up a rail in passing across the damaged track. About 600 to 700 feet of track was torn up and both east and west lines were blocked.

Corn Curbs Fail; Agency Tells Why

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department came up with a detailed report today showing why its control program for corn has failed to hold down surpluses of the crop.

A check of farm plantings under the program last year showed the agency said, that only 14 per cent of the acreage was grown in compliance with the program.

The program set a planting allotment of 37,289,000 acres for a designated commercial producing area comprising 894 counties in 24 Midwestern, Eastern and Southeastern states. This allotment was apportioned among individual farms and only those complying with their allotments became eligible for full price support protection.

The commercial area planted 52,793,000 acres or 15,504,000 more than the allotment. The crop turned out to be third largest of record.

The number of farms complying with their allotments was 38.6 per cent of the total. This meant that there was a higher percentage of compliance among small farms than among larger ones. Compliance by farms ranged from 68.3 per cent in Arkansas counties in the commercial area to 24.7 per cent in Wisconsin.

In Iowa, one of the top corn states, 11½ per cent of the acreage and 28.4 per cent of the farms were in compliance. In Illinois, another big producer, the figures were 14.7 per cent of the acreage and 37.8 per cent of the farms.

This low level of compliance has been cited by Secretary of Agriculture Benson as a reason why the program should be abandoned and farmers left free to plant whatever acreage they desired. He, of course, would provide lower price supports.

The agriculture committee of the House is considering a plan under which growers would be given an opportunity to vote on elimination of the allotment program.

Ohio Convict To See Own Song Published

COLUMBUS (AP) — Matthew Rycombel is doing his chores in the Roman Catholic chapel at Ohio Penitentiary today with a song in his heart and a contract in his pocket to publish that same song.

He has high hopes of being able to duplicate the feat of the famed fiction writer, O. Henry, who gained national attention for work he did inside the prison's walls.

The 36-year-old Rycombel, a native of Buffalo, N. Y., who was sent to prison from Cleveland, has written a song he says will be published. It's a waltz now entitled "The Ten Commandments of Love."

The title will be changed because another song uses it, something Rycombel learned from Joseph E. Zerga, vice president of the Beechwood Music Publishing Co. of Hollywood, Calif., which will publish the song. That company is associated with Capitol Records.

The burglary of a laundry in Cleveland which netted him some clothing and about $5 in cash landed him in the penitentiary for a 1-15 year stretch in July of 1954. He expects parole in 1959.

Space Agency Idea Studied

Role of AEC in New Program Pondered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators generally welcomed today President Eisenhower's plan for a new civilian-controlled space agency, but wondered what part the Atomic Energy Commission might play.

The possibility that nuclear propulsion might eventually replace chemically fueled engines as the motive power in space had led to some suggestions that space projects be assigned to the AEC.

Eisenhower made no direct mention of the AEC in proposing to Congress the establishment of a new National Aeronautics and Space Agency to develop "an imaginative and well-conceived space program."

"That is the explosive angle," said Sen. Mundt (R-SD), a member of the newly created Special Senate Committee on Space and Astronautics.

Four members of the Senate space group — Senators Anderson (D-NM), Bricker (R-Ohio), Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) and Russell (D-Ga)—also serve on the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

* * *

"I BELIEVE there is a place for consideration of atomic propulsion in our space program," Hickenlooper said in an interview. "I'm studying the President's space message now."

Eisenhower said details of his program will be sent to Congress later.

He picked the existing National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics as the foundation for the proposed aeronautics and space agency.

He proposed a civilian director, backed by a board of scientists, technicians and experts, to operate the new unit.

Now-Famed Marshall Plan Started 10 Years Ago Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President of the United States scratched his name on the bottom of the document. He looked solemnly at the congressional leaders and Cabinet advisers around him and said:

"This is a momentous step in the world's quest for an enduring peace." And with these words 10 years ago today, President Harry Truman launched the famous Marshall Plan.

His signature set in motion perhaps the most massive aid program the world has ever known.

Its immediate aim was to save Western Europe, still wracked by the wounds of war, from chaos and communism. It got its name from Gen. George C. Marshall, then secretary of state, who had outlined the plan in an address at Harvard University June 5, 1947.

Immediately foreign aid experts rushed the first shipments to Europe. They cut enough corners to move the first shipment — wheat for drought-stricken Austria — to East Coast ports within six days.

* * *

EVEN BEFORE Paul Hoffman was named Marshall Plan chief April 6, emergency food and raw materials shipments had been arranged for Italy, where Communists were making a big bid for an election victory April 18. The Communists were beaten overwhelmingly.

At that time the flow of food, machinery, raw materials and fuel was figured to cost 16 billion dollars in four years. This estimate proved far too optimistic. By June 30 of this year economic and military aid provided overseas countries will total $48,993,600,000.

Since the Korean War in 1950, military aid has represented the biggest share of this assistance. If it hadn't been for this surprise Communist attack on Korea, most officials believe the task of helping Western Europe could have ended on schedule in 1952.

President Eisenhower joined former President Truman last month in crediting the Marshall Plan with achieving its goal. Eisenhower, appealing for Congress to continue foreign aid for an 11th consecutive year, declared:

"Mutual aid has repeatedly played a major part in keeping free world countries from losing their freedom. It has thwarted the Communist hope of encircling and isolating us."

'Truly Unified' Military Said To Be Assured

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today sent Congress a six-point Pentagon reorganization plan which he said would give the secretary of defense authority for "truly unified" military operations.

In a 7,000-word special message Eisenhower said: "We must remove all doubts as to the full authority of the secretary of defense."

Eisenhower said that separate ground, sea and air warfare is gone forever.

He proposed that the Joint Chiefs of Staff be continued, but said that in the future they should serve as a staff assisting the secretary of defense in his exercise of direction over unified commands.

"Strategic and tactical planning must be completely unified, combat forces organized into unified commands, each equipped with the most efficient weapons system that science can develop, singly led and prepared to fight as one, regardless of service," the message said.

* * *

EVEN BEFORE the message reached Congress, there had been doubts voiced by some influential legislators as to whether the secretary of defense should have greatly increased power.

Eisenhower's program would strip the civilian heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force of direct authority over military operations. In effect, they would be left as merely executive agents.

Eisenhower also proposed, despite opposition in Congress, that in the future all appropriations for the three services be earmarked for handling by the secretary of defense, instead of being channeled by Congress to the three services.

Eisenhower suggested that pro-

'58 Model Huck Finns Born Too Late

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Huckleberry Finn has faded a little farther into the past.

Floating down a river was just good, clean fun in the day of Mark Twain's hero. But in Municipal Court Wednesday three teenagers learned that, legally, it's "loitering and trespassing."

Their lesson will cost them $75 each, payable within a year

The Los Angeles River, unlike Huck Finn's, is paved, sides and bottom. Except during heavy storms it carries a trickle that will just about float a dead leaf.

Swollen with runoff Tuesday, the channel became a raging sluiceway—an adventurous challenge to George Hamlin, 19; Peter Van Duinwyk, 18; and Don Pullen, 19, all of suburban Reseda. They set sail on a rubber life raft, "just for fun."

It wasn't so funny when they lost their paddles.

Observers on shore reported their plight to police and fire departments. A helicopter used the windstream of its rotors to blow them to the bank. Police pulled them out, wet and disenchanted.

Any remaining appeal the escapade may have had vanished when Judge Parks Stillwell told them: "The fines you must pay won't come close to the amount spent in the rescue."

"I guess they wanted to re-enact a little of the Huckleberry Finn days," said the judge. "It's too bad they're in the wrong area and the wrong era. They were about 50 years too late."

Ohio Highway Toll Jumps Over '57 Tally

COLUMBUS (AP) — The death toll on Ohio's highways for the first two months of 1958 showed a sharp increase over the number of persons killed in auto accidents during the January-February period of last year.

The 1958 toll was 272 as compared with 255 for the same period last year The 1958 February toll was 130, an increase of 16 over last year's figure.

Elks Install New Officers

Ruler Announces Appointive Slate

Horace Jacobs became exalted ruler of the Washington C. H. Elks Lodge, succeeding William Stoughton, as installation ceremonies were held Wednesday night in lodge hall.

Jacobs, who took the principal chair after his installation, named four appointive officers as his first official act. They are Norman Boop, esquire; Hugh B. Gidding, chaplain; Irvin (Pat) Waller, inner guard, and Charles Reinke, organist.

Installed in the other three major chairs were Charles James, leading knight; Glen Helms, loyal knight; and Eddie Caldwell, lecturing knight.

Carl Smith returns as secretary and C. S. Hire as treasurer. O. W. House was installed as trustee for a three - year term, and Eugene Ladrach was installed as tiler.

Jacobs becomes he lodge's delegate to the grand lodge. Stoughton, the immediate past ruler, is his alternate.

* * *

STOUGHTON CITED community service and membership expansion at the head of accomplishments during his year as exalted ruler. He noted that he had pledged to get 18 new members, and had succeeded in getting 26.

A Little League team and a bowling team were sponsored by the Elks during 1957, Stoughton pointed out. The dental health program, headed by Virtus Kruse, spent $513 in its work among underprivileged youngsters in Fayette County.

Tom Swaim received a $25 war bond for his scholarship achievements as the local chapter's contribution to the grand lodge National Youth Foundation, Stoughton noted.

A social event was held once a month during the fall and winter, and a charity ball provided money for the dental fund, Stoughton commented, noting that both activities were planned by Andre Metais.

cedure go into effect July 1, 1959.

The message set forth these main points:

1. "We must organize our fighting forces into operational commands that are truly unified, each assigned a mission in full accord with our over-all military objectives."

2. "We must clear command channels so that orders will proceed directly to unified commands from the commander in chief and the secretary of defense."

3. "We must strengthen the military staff in the office of the secretary of defense in order to provide the commander in chief and the secretary with the professional assistance they need for strategic planning and for operational direction of unified commands."

It was under this point that Eisenhower said that in the future the Joint Chiefs of Staff would have the role of assisting the secretary of defense in his direction over unified command.

* * *

A PRESIDENTIAL aide, Bryce Harlow, said in reply to questions at a news conference that this is not a move toward creation of a general staff such as that in the old German military establishment.

4. "We must continue the three military departments as agencies within the Department of Defense to administer a wide range of functions."

But, Eisenhower added, under the new plan the civilian heads of the three services will be relieved of direct responsibility for military operations.

5. "We must reorganize the research and development functions of the department in order to make the best use of our scientific and technological resources."

6. "We must remove all doubts as to the full authority of the secretary of defense."

Eisenhower said the authority of the secretary of defense has been circumscribed and hedged about in a number of ways which not only make the burdens of his office far heavier than they need to be, but also work against the efficient and effective direction of national security activities.

Eisenhower left some members of Congress confused when he told his news conference Wednesday that the secretary of defense has "direct responsibility" for strategic planning and setting up the organization to carry it out.

Most members supposed this was the primary job of the Joint Chiefs of Staff—subject to civilian approval. Some of them said they would regard any change in this system as something to be looked into by Congress.

Deaths, Funerals

MRS. HATTIE HOWARD—Services were held at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the Littleton Funeral Home, Sabina, for Mrs. Hattie Howard, 83, widow of Roy Howard and a Sabina resident for 42 years, who died Sunday.

Stored Grain Tax

permanent injunction on Jan. 4, 1957. The injunction barred County Auditor Harry Allen and Treasurer Fabb from collecting the tax from 1953 on. This covered the unpaid taxes being listed by the state Tax Department examiner as well as future collections.

Judge Case held that the producers of the wheat neither owned the grain in storage nor had any taxable interest in it at tax-listing time.

* * *

THE SUPREME COURT decision Wednesday supported Judge Case's position, although the Fayette County injunction suit was not directly involved in it.

Fabb, who spearheaded the attack on the tax here, had delayed sending out tax bills until after Judge Case had granted the injunction.

For this reason, Fayette County will be spared the refund headache that is in prospect for other counties.

Fabb said a few farmers paid the tax here and in other counties which claimed their wheat was stored there.

* * *

HE ESTIMATED that the invalidation of the tax will save Fayette Countians "around $15,000 a year", but emphasized this is only a guess. He explained that it is impossible to tell how much the tax would be because it was paid to counties (and at their own tax rates) which claimed the grain was stored there. Most of these counties are those in which terminal grain storage elevators are located, some in other states.

The Fayette County Farm Bureau also was in the thick of the attack on the tax and enlisted the support of the state Farm Bureau. Rep. Virgil Perrill of Fayette County carried on the fight in the state capital and helped draft legislation designed to wipe out the law.

* * *

THE ASSESSMENTS were challenged before the State Tax Commission's board of Appeals by Flora A. Goodrich of near New Albany (Franklin County) for grain stored on her farm under a "farm storage loan" with the Commodity Credit Corp., and Ray R. Maddox for wheat stored in a Fayette County grain elevator and Kermit Grener of Franklin County.

In the Goodrich case, the state board said that since the government had control of the wheat and could order it shipped elsewhere on the tax listing date of Jan. 1, 1956, the wheat was "not used in business" and thus was not taxable.

In the cases of Maddox and Grener, the board ruled that Commodity Credit acquired full title to the stored wheat when it took over the producers' warehouse receipts.

The board added that the right of producers to reclaim the equivalent of their stored wheat, in event the market price should exceed the price paid, is a qualified right which Commodity Credit had discretion to take away.

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation Thursday issued a statement saying the court decision would save Ohio farmers at least a quarter of a million dollars each year. The federation supported the farmers in making the appeal.

Americans Paying Off Their Debts Faithfully

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Recession or no, Americans were more faithful about clearing up overdue debts the first quarter of this year than at any time previously.

This was reported today by the American Collectors Assn., Inc., which measures the collectability of overdue consumer debts using November 1952 as a base of 100.

The figure climbed from 84.2 last December to 94.0 for the first quarter of 1958, the first upward trend since last June.

City, County To Pause for Good Friday

Good Friday won't be treated as a full holiday in Washington C. H., but there will be a general slowdown of commerce s merchants and public officials take time out to observe the occasion.

Virtually all retail outlets in downtown Washington C. H. will be closed from noon until 2 p. m. so employes may attend most of the three - hour Union Good Friday service in the First Presbyterian Church or worship in other churches of their choice.

The city auditor's office will be closed during the same time for the same purpose.

The Courthouse will be closed from 11:30 a. m. until 2 p. m. so that employes there ma attend the union service. The post office will conduct business as usual.

The state liquor store, like all others around the state, will close all day Friday on orders from Director Floyd C. Moon of the Ohio Department of Liquor Control

Hillsboro Residents Injured on Rt. 62

Three Hillsboro residents were injured, none seriously, and one man was arrested for drunken driving, as a result of a two-car crash at 7:55 p. m. Wednesday on U. S. Route 62, five miles north of Hillsboro.

Injured in the wreck, all passengers in same car were, George W. Surber, 58, Route 3, Hillsboro, the driver —cut jaw and bruised left knee and elbow;

His wife Ephie — bruises on the mouth and left leg;

Their daughter, Darlene, 12 — broken finger on left hand.

All were treated in Hillsboro Community Hospital.

THE DRIVER of the other auto, Maurice Scruggs, 44, Maysville, Ky., apparently was not injured. He was arrested for driving while intoxicated, and will appear in the Hillsboro Municipal Court at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Damage was extensive to the front ends of both autos.

Scruggs was driving south at the time of the accident, and swerved to the left of the center line, according to state highway patrolmen, hitting the Surber car which was going north.

U.S. Recession Said 'Psychological'

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard flew back from a 10-day visit to the United States today and said the American recession is mostly psychological.

"The American people," he told reporters, "have been hit by a psychological short-circuit."

He said he noticed a widespread feeling of insecurity in the U.S.

Aw, Shucks- Why Hold An Election?

HARRIETTA, Mich. (AP) — This farming village of 200 hasn't had an election in three years. Village Clerk George Lipar says "the council felt they'd get elected anyway, so why waste the money?"

Under state law a village election should be held annually the first Monday in March.

"What's the use? The same old bunch is always reelected," said Councilman Louis Lipar, 70-year-old dairy farmer and father of the village clerk. "If anyone wanted an election they could sure get one if we had the money."

Disuse of the village's franchise came to the attention of state election officials when a resident complained. Wexford County Prosecutor James Herring said he would seek a court order for a special election.

The elder Lipar said the last time a village election was held was in 1955.

"Nobody wanted the election then, but we hadn't had one in three years and we just held one," he explained. "Didn't get much response—only 20 persons cast ballots."

Harrietta has 55 eligible voters. Lipar said all the village officials have been in office 20 years or more and the feeling is that everybody here is happy with the way things are run.

"Besides," he said, "it costs $200 to hold an election. That is more than our $158 general fund budget."

Boy Hurt in Fall

Joseph Gray, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gray of 1204 Grace St., was treated at Memorial Hospital Wednesday for a broken collar bone received in a fall at home.

Two Vehicles Smash Fences

Truckload of Gravel Ditched near Jeff

A truckload of gravel was upended in a ditch near Jeffersonville in one of two accidents following almost identical patterns reported by State Highway Patrolman R. R. Sheline Thursday.

The gravel was ditched on Route 734 about half a mile west of Jeffersonville when a westbound truck driven by Guy Tolle, 55, of Reesville rolled over and smashed a fence on the K. K. Knox farm.

None of the gravel was dumped into the highway, but the whole load was poured into the ditch. After rolling over, the truck landed back on its wheels.

Tolle told Sheline his car skidded on the right berm, crossed over to the left, and rolled as it went into the ditch.

* * *

MRS. RICHARD GRECO, 21, of East Point, Ga., told the same story after the auto she was driving rolled over and crashed through a fence on the Franklin Coil property, a mile east of Washington C. H. on Route 22.

Her husband, Richard, 25, sustained a hand cut, and their 6 month-old son, Richard Jr., had a head cut, but both were released after emergency treatment at Memorial Hospital.

Neither driver was charged.

Toledo Judges Rap High Court Views

TOLEDO (AP)—Most of the judges in appellate and common pleas courts in Lucas County believe the Ohio Supreme Court is without authority to ban the taking of newspaper photographs or television pictures during lower court trial sessions.

A poll of seven judges found all but two believe that a judge has jurisdiction in his own courtroom and that the Supreme Court should not set rules of conduct for the lower courts.

The judges were asked to comment on the Supreme Court's ruling March 21 that photography is courtrooms is prohibited and that violations could invite prosecution for contempt.

Dog Bite Brings $9,000 to Postman

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — A mailman who says he has been bitten by 18 dogs in 17 years received a $9,000 out - of - court settlement Wednesday for bites inflicted by a French poodle.

Charles E. Serven, 43, charged in state supreme court that he was bitten four times by a poodle owned by Mrs. Simone Sampson of New York City.

Serven now makes his rounds with a battery-powered stick, known as a dog-training cane. The batteries activate a vibrator at the tip, which causes dogs to keep their distance.

Stock Prices Continuing On Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued to slide in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Losses of pivotal issues ran from fractions to around a point. A few key stocks rose against the trend.

Tobaccos did well. Steels, nonferrous metals, oils, chemicals, rails and most motors were lower.

It was a mild follow-through to Wednesday's sharp break, the steepest since Jan. 10.

Caution prevailed on the eve of a three-day market holiday. The New York Stock Exchange will be closed Good Friday.

U. S. Steel, Bethelehem and Republic steel dropped fractions but Youngstown Sheet was about unchanged.

Chrysler recouped a small fraction of its 1¼ loss of Wednesday.

Westinghouse electric continued to retreat following a forecast of lower first quarter earnings. It dropped ¾.

Lorillard added a major fraction. American Tobacco was up around two points at one time then pared a fraction from the rise.

Kennecott dropped about a point and Phelps Lodge was firm. General Motors eased. Standard Oil (New Jersey) dropped a fraction.

Government bonds advanced.

Mental Health Chief Files Suit

COLUMBUS (AP) — Dr. Robert A. Haines brought a mandamus action in the Ohio Supreme Court today to require payment of his $18,000 a year salary as state director of mental health and correction.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes cut Haines off the payroll last March 21. Rhodes claimed that he could not legally pay Haines on grounds tha' the director's appointment by Gov. C. William O'Neill was illegal.

O'Neill appointed Haines, former head of Cincinnati's Longview State Hospital, to the Cabinet post last Sept. 20.

The United States continued to head list of countries that bought from and sold to Turkey during 1957.

'Cockeyed' Education Can Endanger Schools

Here we find ourselves in the midst of a readjustment period, called by most people a "recession", but the spenderbund groups over the country, of both major political parties, are shouting for greater and greater federal and state spending. They do not seem to recognize that the wild spending during and since World War II brought on most of this trouble. They know only one song — "spend, spend and spend" regardless of dangers in heavier debt and deficit financing.

John T. Flynn, noted author, lecturer and commentator, has come forth with a statement that, of the spending groups the most vociferous are those that keep calling for more spending by government on education.

Flynn declares in a statement he wrote, that the people who compose the groups raising their voices for more and more spending are "like the drunkard who knows the more he drinks the worse his hangover is going to be — but he keeps on drinking anyway".

The ills that beset American public school education at this time will not be cured by the federal government, or state governments, scattering billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money here and there. There will have to be some reforms within the schools themselves including some ideas on economy.

However, since this is an election year, many office seekers, including congressmen, and numerous politicians, are peculiarly susceptible to the lobbying of the National Education Association, which presumes to speak for the nearly million school teachers of the United States, according to Flynn's declaration.

He further asserts:

"Having nearly wrecked American public education with its "modern" gimmicks of teaching kids "life adjustment" instead of basic subjects, NEA now sees an opportunity to put over its pet idea of federal aid to education — and in the process deliver the public school systems of the states into the hands of the federal bureaucrats in Washington.

"It is obvious that NEA — or rather, its leaders—have learned nothing about what is wrong with our public schools. A recent issue of its monthly journal carried a glowing article about a new school in Maryland—full of "progressive" or "modern" teaching. Listen to this: "A group may see such special demonstrations as the one on the art of weaving used to enrich the study of 'Silas Marner,' or hear a talk on insects by the local exterminator." The kids may not be able to read 'Silas Marner,' but they'll watch a weaving demonstration. They may not be able to add or subtract, or have a sound understanding of the basis of plant, animal and human life from the study of biology, but they'll learn about bugs from the local exterminator!

"Despite all we have heard about the lack of sound educational courses in our schools, the "modern" educationists continue on their merry way. Another Maryland school proclaims proudly that it has the only dry - cleaning course in the county system. A California high school has started a course for junior and senior high school boys called—believe it or not —bachelor living. Another California high school gives academic credits to "students" for carrying bundles out of supermarkets. A junior high school in New York is giving a course on how to talk on the telephone and how to choose television programs.

"Is it any wonder that a university professor in Indiana who gave his students an unexpected history test, came up with some very strange results? He gave the test to 90 students. Only eight out of the 90 knew what the Bill of Rights is. Eighty-six of them could not define a right-to-work law. Only 15 out of the 90 came anywhere close to guessing the population of the United States. And when he asked them the amount of the national debt, the answers ranged all the way from one million dollars to five hundred billion.

"The federal government could spend an amount equal to the entire national debt of two hundred and eighty billion dollars on the public schools, and we wouldn't be any better off than we are now so far as the true education of our youngsters is concerned."

Most Principals Spare Rod

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That about 75 per cent of America's public school principals now have the authority to spank their pupils, but most spare the rod.

That most mama elephants rarely give birth to twins, and who can blame them?

That life does add up. At 70, you'll have eaten 75,000 meals and slept about 200,000 hours.

That the average American spends 20 minutes a day on the telephone, but this figure definitely doesn't apply to teenagers.

That more than 1,000 persons were killed and 100,000 injured last year in accidents caused by drivers swerving from objects thrown on the highway. The most common menace is discarded beer cans.

That even the names of postoffices can make a dieter hungry, such as Lamb, Ky., and Chicken, Alaska.

That, according to the Catholic Digest, 10 million Russians are studying English, but fewer than 8,000 Americans are studying Russian.

That a recent survey showed dandruff, as well as ulcers, is a high-tension occupational ailment among actors, newspapermen and advertising executives.

That another survey disclosed 66 per cent of the admen who carry briefcases home admit they don't open them until they get back to the office the next morning.

That April 20th is National Mother-in-law Day. Buy your present early and avoid the rush.

That a company has developed a closed circuit TV camera that can be used as an electronic baby sitter. It costs $1,265, but you don't have to leave food in the refrigerator for it or drive it home.

That, although the West seems to get tamer every year, wild burros have become a nuisance in California. Yet, that's right, wild burros.

That President Theodore Roosevelt had a rule of life the so-called "beat generation" could adopt today. "Do the best you can, with what you have, where you are."

Report to the Public

By George Sokolsky

The story of how businesses operate, how they meet their problems, is often as dramatic as the whodunits that I look at late at night.

Therefore I have sometimes wondered how it happens that companies that spend millions of dollars on television do not use their commercials to tell something about themselves, particularly the capital and durable goods manufacturers who do not sell to the consumer directly.

The United States Steel Hour has recently been using its commercial time to explain what it is and how it does business and if we are to have good plays interrupted in this manner, I prefer something really informative to watching a three-quarters naked female lie in the sand and sing about beer or cigarettes or bras.

The subject matter of U. S. Steel's "Report to the Public" is very instructive. We pay 7¾ cents a pound on the average for carbon and alloy steel. So that mounts up to about 4 billion dollars a year and looks very big.

Of each dollar, 42½ cents goes to wages and salaries. Of the remaining 57½ cents, 30 cents went to 50,000 suppliers of products and services.

That left 27½ cents of which 6 cents went to depreciation which really should be called "wearing-out," which is what happens to machines as well as men, only the government recognizes the facts of life about machines but not about human beings.

So we are now down to 21½ cents but federal, state and local taxes took 12 cents of that leaving only 9½ cents to gross profits out of every dollar earned.

Now, if the company could keep that 9½ cents as a real profit it would be doing a very big business, but what actually happens is that it sets aside 2 cents additional for replacements and 3½ cents for research and improvements and such activities and comes out in the end 4 cents on the dollar of profit which goes to 300,000 share owners of whom not one owns more than 2 per cent of the stock.

It is a very valuable kind of report and would do more good abroad than much of the stuff that goes over to Europe, Asia and Africa these days.

Another of these commercials deals with the problem of inflation. All costs, including labor costs, went up an average of 8-1-2 per cent per year since 1940 but prices only went up 5-¾ per cent.

The rest of the commercial explains how a company manipulates to avoid being out-priced in the market. But the commercial I liked best when I heard it was the one on obsolescence.

Here is a machine, one machine that cost 10 million dollars. That is why some industrial operations cannot be done on a small scale. If a steel company owns five open hearth furnaces, they might have cost 50 million dollars, 25 years ago. The government permits the company to take off part of cost each year, so that when the machine wears out, it can be replaced.

But at today's prices that machine costs 45 millions. So where does a company get the money to make up the difference between the 10 million dollars it was permitted by the tax collector to set aside for replacement and the 35 millions that it has to find?

Well, some of it is that 2 cents additional set aside out of each earned dollar. But much of it comes from borrowing from banks, insurance companies and the public.

You may have noticed when you look at railroad trains or locomotives that there are signs showing that the particular car or locomotive is not owned by the railroad but by a bank which acts as a trustee.

We do not yet see such signs on machinery in factories, but anything can happen when so large a share of earned income goes to taxes and the taxes are wastefully and profligately spent.

The reason that the administration, which knows as well as you or I that taxes must be cut, postpones that day is that they know that, short of war, the politicians will not be able to put the taxes back once they are taken off.

Government will have to cut its cloth to fit its pocket - book; all sorts of useless and duplicative activities, described in the Hoover reports and testified to before congressional committees, will have to go.

Nothing would be better for the country.

Amish Ordered Back into Court

WOOSTER (AP) — Three Amish couples have been ordered back into court in their dispute with school attendance laws.

The couples, who refuse to send their sons to school as required by law, were jailed for 12 days and later freed.

The Ninth District Court of Appeals ruled Saturday that Probate Judge Don J. Young Jr. followed improper procedure in imprisoning the couples.

Judge Young Wednesday issued citations charging the Amish with child neglect. He ordered them to appear in court with their truant sons April 9.

The boys, all under 16, have not attended school for almost a year.

Diet and Health

Special Occasions Only for High Heels

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IT is all right for you women to wear high heels to parties, dinner dances and to just about any celebration or special occasion. But you can't wear them all the time and escape foot trouble.

I fully realize that high heels are fashionable, and I don't expect you to do without them. But I want you to try to get along with heels no higher than one and a half inches for general use.

Disturbs Body Functions

Occasionally, as I said, you can don higher heels when you go out for an evening. Wearing such footgear continually, however, will disturb the proper function not only of your feet, but of your entire body.

Squeezing your feet into tight shoes—and many of you women do it—is as bad as elevating the heel so high that your feet are thrown out of their proper position for bearing your body's weight.

Causes Foot Ills

Tight shoes, high heels, or a combination of both, can cause corns, calluses and bunions. Even worse, such abuse of your feet might result in poor circulation or arthritis.

Millions of Americans have foot trouble. And most of it is caused by poor-fitting shoes.

I've given you exercises in the past to help strengthen foot muscles. Simply walking around your home each day in soft slippers with the soles turned inward and the toes curled down will help strengthen posture muscles.

Rest your Feet

Whether you wear high heels or not, whether you perform muscle-strengthening exercises or not, your feet are bound to become tired every once in awhile. Naturally, when this happens you want to rest them. But do it scientifically.

Instead of placing your weary feet on a chair or stool of height equal with your chair, prop them atop a table or the arm of a sofa or chair. This puts the feet higher than your heart and aids circulation.

Alternate Soaking

Another method of stimulating circulation is to place your feet in a bucket of hot water for two or three minutes and then switch them to cold water. Continue this alternate soaking for 15 minutes or so. It should make tired feet a lot more comfortable.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. T.: Does cortisone help cure cancer?

Answer: There is no evidence that cortisone is of any help in curing cancer. It is primarily used in treating of asthma, allergic diseases and certain types of arthritis.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SWEET YOUNG THING toyed with the notion of signing up for a shorthand course. "When we get finished with you," promised the enrollment clerk, "you'll be accurate, dependable, and neat." "What about speed?" persisted the applicant. "Our last nine graduates," said the enrollment clerk calmly, "married their bosses inside of five months."

"How come a beautiful young girl like you was fired by that old wolf at the Third National?" the applicant for a job was asked. She explained demurely, "It was because of a mistake I wouldn't make."

Love in the second grade: Wrote Judy to the lad in front of her, "I love you. Do you love me?" The lad replied, "I do." "That's exactly what I didn't want to say," he explained to his dad that evening, "but I can't spell 'don't.'"

World Conference OKs Israeli Shipping

GENEVA (AP) — A new principle of international law was approved Wednesday, in effect legalizing passage of Israeli ships through Arab waters to Israel's southern port of Eilat on the Tiran Straits.

The 87-nation Conference on the Law of the Sea approved the principle 31-30.

It provides for passage of foreign ships through straits connecting the high seas with the territorial waters of a coastal state.

Egypt and Saudi Arabia claim the straits are territorial waters and blocked passage to Israeli ships until Israel invaded Egypt in 1956. Since then a detachment of the U. N. Emergency Force has kept the straits open to Israeli ships trading with Africa and Asia.

Social Barrier Seen in Britain

LONDON (AP)—A British government committee, which wants business firms to ease rush hour traffic by staggering working hours, has hit a social barrier.

Most London businesses now open at 9 a. m. The committee, seeking to persuade part of them to unlock their doors half an hour earlier, reported: "One large city organization, who considered an 8:30 a. m. start, reported that their female staff objected to the an early start, suggestive of factory hours, would involve a loss of social prestige."

Throwing of Brick At Dog Costs $530

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — James Candy, 40, paid $530 in a damage suit for throwing a brick at a dog for tearing up his lawn.

Harold Vance, owner of the 5-year-old sheepdog, put her on the witness stand as mute testimony she had lost the sight of one eye.

Judge Charles Fisher awarded Vance $30 for the medical bill and $500 in punitive damages.

Easter's Untold Stories

Cyrenian's Life Is Changed Forever After He Took Up Christ's Cross

Editor's Note: The third in a four-part series on minor characters in the Easter drama, this is the story of Simon, who without plan or warning suddenly found himself intimately involved in Jesus' final hours.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Like many another tourist, Simon saw the martial procession coming down the hill from the Fortress Antonia. Curious, he stopped to watch it. He could make out three prisoners, each carrying a heavy wooden beam.

It seemed queer—a hanging in the holiday week. Simon shrugged, worked the betel nut in his jaw, and spat.

He was a giant of a man, dark of skin, with a proud, erect stance. His massive hands were callused, and he had the sun-crinkled eye of a farmer. But his turban and mantle were of finest woven wool.

He came from Cyrene, in Libya's fertile, coastal hills where he and his sons, Rufus and Alexander, raised great fields of cotton. Marketing business may have brought him on his trip to Jerusalem.

From up the street, the formation approached slowly, led by a Roman herald bearing the decree of execution.

Behind trudged the prisoners, prodded along by four soldiers. Others marched at the rear, their orange-colored capes rippling at their backs. A centurion moved at the side of the column, occasionally snapping orders.

Simon found his attention riveted on one of the victims, a slender, bearded man, whose face was scratched, blood-streaked and puffed with ashen bruises. His arms bore the jagged gashes of the metal and bone-tipped lash.

Neither of the other two men, both burly, vicious-looking ruffians, showed any signs of a flogging. Only the one appeared gravely hurt and weakened. Red stains soaked the back of His robe.

Yet, with all the marks of abuse and injury, there was about Him a formidable strength. He was broken, crushed, but somehow, still relentlessly determined in His walk to doom. Simon felt a surge of admiration.

The crowd had thickened, but when the big man from Africa stepped forward a bit, the others edged aside, opening a path. He had not intended to move closer, but the action came involuntarily.

SIMON OF CYRENE

His ears picked up scatterings of talk now, and some of the onlookers pointed their fingers "The Nazarene," they said. "The disturber, Jesus." The other two condemned men were said to be bandits, Dysmas and Gestas.

The hands of all three were tied, held aloft athwart the wooden beams which rested on their right shoulders. To Simon's practiced eye, the boards looked about four cubits (six feet) long, about two palms wide and three fingers thick. These were the horizontal pieces of the crosses on which they would die. The uprights already were in place on Calvary.

Simon's eyes narrowed resentfully as he watched the agonized progress of the Nazarene. The man's breath came in light, rapid gasps, and He tottered uncontrollably each time He advanced a foot.

Then, just as the prisoners came abreast of Simon, the Nazarene stumbled on a jutting cobblestone and pitched forward on the pavement. The board slammed against His back.

A soldier cursed. Another one, muttering, slid the board free, and the centurion came running up to get the prisoner back on His feet. Once up, the officer surveyed Him dubiously and shook his head.

Then his irritated gaze swept the crowd. Simon stood out, a natural physical specimen for a heavy load. The centurion jabbed a finger at him — "You!"

Simon eyed the soldier warily. He didn't like jumping to Roman commands. Then he glanced at the battered prisoner, and that puzzling attraction, another sort of command, rang in him.

He wiped his lips and strolled over beside the crossbeam. With a quick, easy dip of powerful arms, he swung it to his shoulder. Then he turned and for the first time his eyes met those of Jesus.

It was only an instant, but to Simon it held an eternity of affection received. Those eyes, despite all the man's mistreatment, swam with a strangely rich animation, with a deep knowledge and immense love.

There was something else, too, a sort of brotherliness, as if in the flash of a single look, He knew you utterly, through and through, and made you a cherished companion. There were no guarded reservations, no barriers in those eyes.

Never before had Simon felt so fully wanted, so genuinely needed and approved. It wasn't so much gratitude that he saw in that look, but a limitless understanding that smiled approval and kinship.

At a barked order, the procession resumed, and Simon stepped along beside the prisoner, hardly aware of the weight on his shoulder. It seemed light as straw, and he couldn't shake off a baffling sensation. He had an urge to thank this condemned man, Jesus, for the chance to carry the beam. It just didn't make sense, this feeling he had of being especially good and worthy, because he walked with this man to Calvary.

Jesus walked more steadily now, and Simon heard Him sigh with relief. It was about six furlongs (three fourths of a mile) out to the hill of crucifixion — called Golgotha, place of the skull.

No record tells what conversation passed between Simon and Jesus on that somber walk together, but it is possible that they spoke, that Jesus explained His lone, wonderful, terrible mission to the world.

"I am the good shepherd . . . I lay down my life for the sheep." A farmer would understand such language. ". . .I lay down My life, that I may take it again . . . He who believes in Me, though he die, yet shall he live again."

They reached the hill.

The prisoners were stripped, and laid on their backs while their outstretched arms were nailed to the crossbeams. These were then hoisted to the stakes, the beams lashed in place, and the victims' feet nailed to the stakes.

Simon could help Jesus no more. The hours of torture began — the crawling, creeping, muscle-cramping, lung-constricting horror of crucifixion—the slow death of pain —one of the cruelest forms of execution ever devised.

Loud were the taunts. Bitter the mockery. And Jesus implored, "Father, forgive them. . ." The soldiers gambled, and the crowd gawked. "My God, my God. . ." The sky turned black and the earth shook. "It is finished!"

Slowly, Simon turned and walked away. The big African would never be the same again. His strong arms had taken him into the embrace of stronger arms still.

In the years afterward, Simon from Cyrene labored with Jesus' apostles, as did his two sons. He had discovered, suddenly and without plan, that life's greatest compensation came when he took up a cross and followed Jesus.

1 Drink by Woman, 80, Makes Her Alcoholic

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman became an alcoholic after downing her first drink at the age of 80—a group of business men studying the economic impact of alcoholism was told Tuesday.

Dr. Harold W. Lovell, a psychiatrist, cited the woman's case as proof that many persons are potential alcoholics.

Red Deputy Premier Mikoyan Labeled Adroit, Talented

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Anastase I. Mikoyan, one of Nikita Khrushchev's two first deputy premiers, stands out as one of the most able, adroit and talented of top-rank Soviet leaders. His promotion back to his old rank shows the high value Khrushchev puts on his skill and experience.

His continuance in high office has particular importance in the international sphere. Though he cannot be called a friend of the West by any stretch of the imagination, Mikoyan probably takes a more realistic attitude toward dealing with the West than any other man of weight in Soviet policy circles.

Mikoyan's position in the Kremlin is unique on a number of counts:

1. As an Armenian he is one of only two non-Slavs in the top strata. The other is a very junior member — Nuritdin Mukhitdinov from Uzbekistan.

2. Mikoyan is one of only four Old Bolsheviks — party members before 1917 — in the ranks of the Communist party's ruling Presidium. And he is the only Old Bolshevik of actual importance in the leadership.

3. Mikoyan has had longer continuous experience in high-level Soviet affairs than any other of the present Soviet leaders. He was named a candidate member of the Politburo in 1926 and a full member in 1935.

4. Mikoyan is one of the most outspoken of Soviet leaders. His sharp tongue antagonized his old friend and drinking crony, Stalin, and almost led to his being purged.

Kikoyan joined the Communist party in 1915. He held important posts in Communist party affairs from the Revolution on, continuously. He became Stalin's expert on foreign and domestic trade and long occupied the post of minister of foreign trade.

After Stalin's death Mikoyan was one of the most outspoken of the leaders in criticism of Stalinism — and one of Khrushchev's closest allies.

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Bert Hill is a Union Pacific traffic agent who believes in doing everything possible for the comfort of the passenger.

He recently assisted a Japanese war bride in giving birth to a son in a passenger car at the Union Station here. The baby arrived a month early.

"I knew about what should be done. I had read some about childbirth and seen part of it in the movies," Hill said. "But I sure was scared."

Burlap Report

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — The burlap bag may look as good on a bunch of potatoes as anything, but it doesn't help keep them from being damaged.

Horticulturist Walter Sparks of Idaho University said the burlap bag is so tough that it invites rough handling of potatoes being transported. He said the potatoes suffer damage before the bag breaks.

Program Topic "Dead Sea Scrolls" Enjoyed by Browning Club Tuesday

The Browning Club retained its same officers for the coming year when members assembled in the Bloomingburg home of Mrs. Harry Elliott for their monthly meeting Tuesday night.

Officers are Mrs. Don Murdock, president; Mrs. John Case, vice president; Mrs. Don Soale, secretary; and Mrs. John Angus, treasurer.

Mrs. Murdock opened the meeting with the quotation of the month. She also reminded all members to obtain their tickets for the annual banquet. Elaborate plans are being made for this annual affair to be held at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday, April 29, in the Fayette Grange Hall. All reservations must be in by Saturday, April 26.

Mrs. Ray Terrel, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Orville Jenkins, whose subject for the evening was the "Dead Sea Scrolls".

Also presented was Mrs. Gene Smith, who was the commentator.

Mrs. Jenkins, in her summary of this interesting study, compared the times when these scrolls were written to the present century and quoted: "The Christians of the world today, many of them bewildered and afraid in this era of satellites and atoms; this Holy week will renew their faith and hope in their crucified and risen Saviour".

She stated that these people, too, in those centuries before the birth of Jesus, were awaiting the coming of a Messiah or a leader who would bring peace to their troubled world.

On a spring day in 1947, among the barren Judean foothills that rise above the northwest shore of the Dead Sea, a goat in search of greener pastures precipitated the most significant religious discovery in recent history. As the Bedouin shepherd pursued the animal, he stumbled on a hidden cave. For Biblical scholars, the cave contained green pastures indeed: the first of the now famous Dead Sea Scrolls.

The shepherds who had hoped for treasures were disappointed to find eight crumbling manuscripts wrapped in linen and stored in large jars. For many months the shepherds wandered in the wilderness, then on one of their visits to Bethlehem on a market day, they decided to try to sell them. In one of the side streets of Bethlehem was a small general store and cobbler's shop run by a man known as Kando. It was not until several days after he bought the scrolls, thinking their leather might come in handy in the cobbler trade, that he examined the strange writing on the material. It was meaningless to him, but he began to sense that perhaps they were of some real value. On his next trip to Jerusalem he showed them to the metropolitan at the Syrian Convent of St. Mark, who took them to the various scholastic institutions of Jerusalem. The news leaked out of the existence of the ancient manuscripts.

Who wrote them and when, that was the big question.

Scholars identified among the manuscripts a full text of Isaiah, a commentary on the book of Habakkuk, a collection of hymns and psalms, a scroll thought tentatively to be the book of Lamech, a heretofore unknown book called the "War of the Children of Light against the Children of Darkness." The manuscripts apparently dated back to the Second or Third century and antedated the oldest existing Hebrew Biblical manuscript.

The age of the scrolls fixed, the scholars turned to their origin. After searching the ruins they found evidence that these caves had been the habitation of an ancient Jewish sect called Essenes, one of a three major religious bodies within ancient Judaism (the others: the Pharisees and the Sadducees, therefore these manuscripts were once part of an Essene library and were all Essene writings.

The most startling disclosure of the Essene documents so far published is that the sect possessed, years before Christ, a terminology and practice that have always been considered uniquely Christian. The Essenes practices baptism and shared a liturgical repast of bread and wine, presided over by a priest. They believed in a redemption and in the immortality of the soul. The most important leader was a mysterious figure called the Teacher of Righteousness, a Messianic prophet-priest blessed with divine revelation, persecuted and perhaps eventually martyred.

Current reports from Jersusalem tell of an important discovery that is still top secret, pending full evaluation.

A discussion followed Mrs. Jenkins' presentation.

For the serving of delightful refreshments, Mrs. Elliott invited the 17 members and six guests to a beautifully appointed tea table which was centered with a lovely arrangement of spring flowers.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Maude Howland, Mrs. John Groff, Mrs. Katherine Gossard, Mrs. Vern Foster and Mrs. Zoe Garringer.

Creamer, secretary of status of women; Mrs. B. E. Kelley, secretary of publicity; and Mrs. Ed Fite, Wesleyan Service Guild coordinator.

The luncheon at noon was served by the members of the Wilson Circle. Tables were centered with arrangements of branches of pussy willows and japonica with tiny colored kites tied to the branches. The birthday table honored the Rev. L. J. Poe among others with April birthdays.

The business session, conducted by Mrs. John Weade, outgoing president, opened with a piano selection by Mrs. Perry Grimm. Mrs. D. B. Nelson reported on the study class held during March and also told of the district meeting which was held recently in Wilmington.

A life membership pin was presented to Mrs. Joseph O'Riley by Mrs C. L. Lewellen.

Mrs. Weade introduced Mrs. Dick Junk who conducted the devotions before a worship table covered with a white cloth upon which rested the gold cross. Mrs. Junk read a prayer, poem and a paper on "Springtime, God's Plan for the Universe".

Piano selections were presented by Mrs. B. E. Kelley.

Mrs. Weade introduced the Rev. Mr. Poe who spoke on "Holy Week and Its Meaning for All of Mankind".

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Poe.

Miss Van Voorhis Is Bride Of Mr. Worthy Gemmill II

Miss Patricia Jane Van Voorhis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Calvin Van Voorhis, former residents of Washington C. H. now living in Chillicothe, became the bride of Mr. Worthy David Gemmill II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Worthy Bryant Gemmill, Shaker Heights, Saturday.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Benjamin Judd, Jr., pastor of the Presbyterian Church, in Trinity Methodist Church, Chillicothe, at 2:30 p. m. A half hour program of nuptial music, preceding the ceremony, was presented by Mr. Carl Barr, organist, and Mrs. Barr, soloist, an uncle and aunt of the bride.

Baskets of white gladioli and carnations, greenery and candelabra with white candles adorned the altar. White satin bows marked the pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle over satin. The bodice of white lace was fashioned with a portrait neckline and long lace sleeves ending in points over the hands. The very bouffant skirt was worn over a hoop and extended into a chapel train of tulle and lace. Her veil of silk illusion was held in place by a coronet of matching lace with pearl accents. She carried a white Prayer Book topped with a cluster of white camellias and carnations.

Mrs. Peter Wendler of Columbus was her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Gemmill of Shaker Heights, sister of the groom; Miss Barbara Young of Columbus, Miss Deanna Lambert of Middletown and Miss Judith Adams of Green Hills.

The bride's attendants wore identical gowns of periwinkle blue silk organza over white taffeta. They were designed with oval necklines and brief sleeves. Their princess gored skirts were extremely flared. A narrow white band, embroidered with pink flowers, encircled the bodice and terminated at the back in a wide sash with long streamers. Matching slippers, short white gloves and pink head pieces completed their ensembles.

The bridesmaids carried white straw baskets filled with pink sweetheart roses with cascading white shattered carnations, while the matron of honor's basket contained the roses with a deeper shade of pink in the cascading shattered carnations, re-emphasizing the two shades of pink on the sashes.

Mr. Michael Malcolmson of New York City was Mr. Gemmill's best man. Guests were seated by Mr. William Van Voorhis of Chillicothe, brother of the bride; Mr. Peter Wendler of Columbus, Mr. Walter Randolph of Toledo, Mr. Thomas Irish of Oklahoma City, Okla., Mr. Kenneth Brinza of Rocky River and Mr. Myron Thomas of Garretsville.

Mrs. Van Voorhis chose for her daughter's wedding a sheer Navy blue gown which was fashioned of semi-princess lines with a Queen Anne taffeta neckline and a pink flowered hat. The groom's mother, Mrs. Gemmill, was attired in a silk beige faille Cecil Chapman sheath dress with a cowl neckline and full lower back skirt. With this, she wore a beige straw hat.

Both mothers wore corsages of pink camellias and shattered carnations.

A reception for 125 guests was given at the Chillicothe Country Club. The lounge was beautifully decorated with white flowers. The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake, topped with a bride and groom silhouette, and surrounded by greenery.

Assisting hostesses were Miss Portia Brownell, Miss Sally Reiff, Miss Nancy Schlue, Miss Joan Davis, Miss Linda Lovell, all of Washington C. H., Mrs. Ronald Bell, Columbus, Miss Susan Holiday, Worthington, and Mrs. LeVern Bock, Jeffersonville.

For their brief honeymoon, the bride was wearing a black linen sheath dress with a white pique bib neckline and a black and white plaid matching jacket. A white straw hat, black shoes and purse and white gloves completed her ensemble.

Upon their return they will reside in Columbus where the couple will resume their studies at Ohio State University.

The new Mrs. Gemmill, a graduate of Washington C. H. High School, is enrolled as a junior student in the College of Education at Ohio State University and is an active member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. She also attended the school of nursing at OSU.

Mr. Gemmill graduated from University Prep School, Cleveland, and Williams College in Williamstown, Mass., where he was a member of Zeta Psi social fraternity. He is now a senior in the College of Medicine at Ohio State University. He is also a member of Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity, in which he has held the offices of social chairman and treasurer.

Guests attending the wedding were from Cincinnati, Washington C. H., Cleveland, Pickerington, W. Mansfield, Toledo, Columbus, Chillicothe, Shaker Heights, New York City and Oklahoma City.

Woman Candidate Lists Points of 'Platform'

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Vivienne L. Suarez, Columbus mother of five who seeks the Democratic nomination for governor, said Wednesday night she would be in favor of a state income tax.

The 38-year-old housewife said she was in favor of supplemental unemployment benefits, federal aid to education with state matching funds, legalized bingo and the abolition of capital punishment.

Housewives Are Happy, Self-Satisfied

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Central Press Assn.

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP) — The modern American housewife is —other reports to the contrary — happy, self-satisfied, well adjusted to her life, content to let her husband rule the roost and puts the welfare of her family ahead of any career ideas she may harbor.

A study of nearly 600 married women in upstate New York cities, conducted by Cornell University's Department of Sociology and Anthropology, knocked out some widely held ideas of woman's discontent with her modern lot.

OVERWHELMINGLY, the women reported that they enjoy cooking "interesting" meals and denied they hated housework.

They also confessed they thought of themselves as interesting people and that they did not fee. their education was going to waste.

Among the more interesting results of the survey were answers to series of questions about goals in life, likes and dislikes.

While 472 out of 521 women said one of their main goals was being a good wife and 455 checked "raising children properly," only 121 noted down outside - the - home good works, only 180 chose "being a religious person," only 136 noted "being creative, using your own talents a.. abilities," 117 "being a person who is interesting to other people." And — lowest number of all —63 chose "being successful in a job, or business or profession."

Well over half the women said they believed a person had a right to use birth-control and that a women could be happy without children of her own.

• • •

WHILE 218 women said that a sex life is naturally less important to a woman than to a man, 243 said the opposite and 105 were not sure. And 169 women were of the opinion that "a woman doesn't enjoy sex life as much as a man does," while 243 women denied it — and 87 were not sure one way or the other.

To the critical question on how satisfied they were with their life, 278 reported they were very satisfied; 225, fairly satisfied, and 17, not very satisfied.

The study included married women between 25 and 49 years of age in financial brackets ranging from poor to $25,000 a year.

• • •

SOME of the questions were designed to chart women's attitudes on feminine emancipation. Most women, regardless of educational background, felt it was "all right" to become a lawyer, an electrical engineer, to travel long distances alone, take part in politics, have interests outside the house —even to remain unmarried, if she wishes.

It was noted that more women who were college graduates advocated feminine independence than their less well educated sisters, who tended generally to be more conservative and traditional in their attitudes.

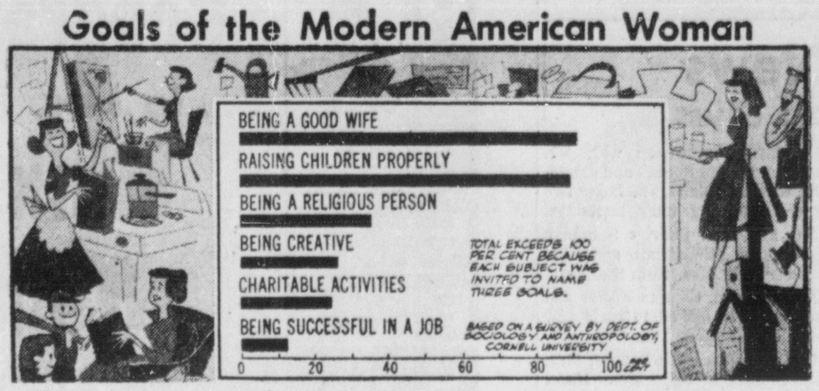

A majority of the women studied felt that the husband's roles in the home were primarily that of breadwinner, as a "regiment in reserve" in disciplining the children and handyman — taking out the garbage, mowing the lawn and coping with the storm windows. All of them held up the ideal of family "togetherness."

• • •

THE STUDY showed that the most contented of housewives are the young, highly educated, emancipated were the young, poorly-educated but emancipated women.

Make a Little Girl Happy: Stitch Up an Easter Dress

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

A new Easter outfit is very important to a young lady. And when Mom has given it a special touch with butt-on bunny faces, the new dress becomes an event.

Here's a suggestion for a little girl's Easter ensemble. Stitch a pretty, simple dress—perhaps one of crisp green-and-white striped cotton with a full skirt and a fitted bodice. Then make a button-on bib of a white rabbit with green eyes and a pink nose. Repeat the bunny on a miniature handbag and brighten up a straw sailor hat with a ribbon appliqued with bunny faces and Easter eggs.

The dress, handbag and hat can stand on their own later, without the Easter trimmings.

The pattern for the bunny bib with complete instructions for making it may be picked up at your local sewing center. With your automatic swing-needle sewing machine or with an automatic zigzagger attachment, you can make quick work of the applique work, button holes and fancy stitching. Simply set your machine or zigzagger for a narrow satin stitch, and you'll have smooth sewing.

Here's how to do the bunny on the handbag. Cut two bunny faces, leaving ⅝-inch seam allowance all around. Trace his eyes, nose, mouth and whiskers on the face. Back one bunny face with organdy. Cut out the eyes, nose and mouth, leaving seam allowance. Use grosgrain ribbon for this. Baste in place. Using narrow satin-stitch, work around outline of features. Trim away excess fabric. Use gray thread in a satin stitch to make eyebrows and whiskers. Make eyelashes, too, if you prefer a little-girl rabbit.

Place bunnies right sides together and stitch all edges, leaving a three-inch opening at the bottom. Trim seam allowance, clip curved edges and turn. Slipstitch open edge and press. Attach to any small handbag with snaps or invisible stitching.

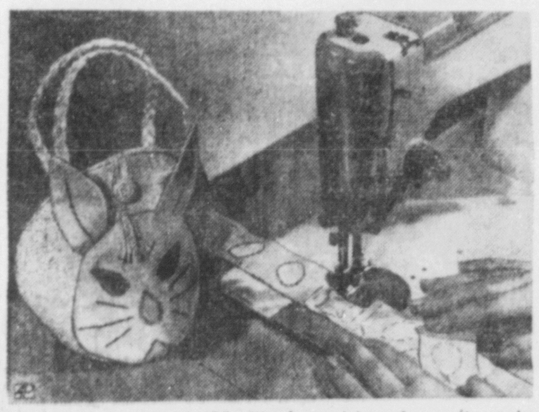

To make a bunny big, follow directions for pocketbook bunny, but make face large enough to cover front of bodice. Extend ears so that they button in back under dress collar. Extend side sections to go around waist and button in back.

To do the hatband, trace Easter eggs and bunny faces on two-inch squares of pink and green ribbon. Baste in place on white ribbon. With machine set for a narrow stitch, sew around outlines of eggs and bunnies. Cut away excess fabric close to line of stitching. Arrange design so that appliques go around crown and down the long back streamers.

This technique may be used to spruce up one of last year's dresses, as well as to add variety to a new one.

EASTER BELLE: She's wearing a gray striped cotton dress with button - on bunny bib, matching handbag and new Easter hatband, all easily stitched on new automatic machines.

EASTER EGG APPLIQUES: They're quick and easy to make, and add a gay note to an Easter hatband for a little girl.

Who Should Propose--Boy or Girl?

By HOYT McAFEE
Central Press Assn.

DENVER, Colo.—As the reigning "Miss America of 1958," Marilyn Van Derbur—Denver's blonde charmboat — continues to touch off lively debate on one point. She disapproves, in vigorous terms of girls asking their men friends for dates. She has proclaimed her opposition to that "new trend" on her cross-country personal appearances.

As regards a woman proposing marriage to the man of her choice, Marily shudders over the very thought of it!

"I certainly believe the man should speak up, take the lead, in such matters," she says. "In this country women have always been the pursued. I see no reason why that romantic custom should be changed now."

Is there really a trend in America in favor off woman asking for dates and proposing marriage? Certain developments would tend to indicate so—yes. For example, the Rev. Leslie Conrad Jr., of the Lutheran League of America, advanced a "bold suggestion" some time back.

• • •

IN ESSENCE, it was that women should enjoy the same privileges as males in picking their escorts, dates and mates. He stated that such a change in our social custom should make for greater naturalness, companionship, and more desirable marriages.

The Rev. Mr. Conrad's proposal attracted wide notice. Sizeable numbers of women in various cities and towns did more than express enthusiasm for it.

They met in groups and vowed to translate it into concrete action. In short, they no longer hesitated to ask the fellows they liked to escort them to dances, parties, movies, and athletic events.

Groups dedicated to this feminine pursuit — namely, frankly and openly, showing interest in certain men — have come up with some gimmicks of their own: gimmicks for baiting, luring on, and hooking the unattached male.

• • •

THE SNARE-THE-MEN campaigns include: Picnic and barbecue parties, bring-your-camera - and-fire-away parties, let's -go - slumming parties, informal dances (sponsored by young women) and church basement socials — for the express purpose of bringing eligibles of both sexes together!

In some cities I've observed the "overtures" of romantic-minded women. Unabashedly they get this message over to interested and eligible men: "We're sociable. We're available. And we're bored with going it alone!"

To finish the survey, questionnaires were sent to three of the screen's most attractive stars. I inquired of Ava Gardner, Lana Turner and Rhonda Fleming, "Would you, under certain circumstances, ask a man for a date — even propose matrimony to him?"

• • •

LANA TURNER'S chuckles o me response: "If I meet a man who excites me, a man I really want, just say I'll go all - out to make him mine — exclusively mine!"

Ava was more guarded in her reply: "If a man and a woman like one another in the dating stage, I say let her ask him to take her places.

Rhonda Fleming was both terse and impish in her response: "When a woman meets a fascinating man, she should ask for him, fight for him, and when he surrenders she should make sure he never gets away!"

4-H Club Activities

OKI HI

The Oki hi Camp Fire Girls had their meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Thurman Coulter, leader.

The meeting was opened with the saying of the "Desire of the Camp Fire Girls".

Each girl answered the roll call by saying her Indian name.

Plans were made for the members to attend the Camp Fire birthday party.

The meeting closed with the song the "Law of the Camp Fire Girls." Vicki McDaniels played the trumpet while the other girls sang to it.

Refreshments were brought and served by Geraldine Horney and Cheryl Whitfield.

CENTRAL IDEAS

The organizational meeting of the Central Ideas 4-H Club was held Friday at Central School.

Officers elected were: Carolyn Evans, president; Penny Light, vice president; Sharon Williamson, secretary; Margaret Williams, treasurer; Mary Grim and Patti Williamson, recreation leaders; Peggy Stern and Carol Provost, health leaders.

Mrs. Highfield and Mrs. Slagle are the advisers of the group.

Susie Taylor

MAGIC MAKERS

The regular meeting of the Magic Maker 4-H Club was held at the home of the advisor, Mrs. Billie Wilson. The meeting was opened by the president, Kitty Sagar. Linda Lucas led the group in the pledges. The roll call was answered by naming their favorite cookie. The treasurer's report was read and dues were collected.

Community projects were discussed and it was decided to assist with the Lily Sale and Cancer Drive.

Project reports were given and Mrs. Wilson made new assignments. Hannah Case gave a safety report on asphyxiation and Pam Rhoads gave a demonstration on sewing.

The group enjoyed a new game that Juliana Wilson taught them. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served with Margie Hurtt as hostess.

Jowanda Wilson and Pat Hagen are junior leaders assisting the girls.

MARION MARVELS

The Marion Marvels held their second meeting at the Farm Bureau auditorium with 29 members present.

The meeting was opened with the 4-H Pledge followed by group singing. Gene O'Cull conducted an amusing quiz on "Are You Healthy?" and presented several safety cartoons and slogans.

An election of officers was held with Larry O'Cull being named president; Gene O'Cull, vice president; Jane Hutton, secretary; Eddie Rose, assistant secretary; Sue Ellen Graumlich, treasurer; Terry Kneisley; assistant treasurer; Ann Draise, health leader, Kenny Draise, safety leader; Jim Klever and Carolyn Yeoman, news reporters; Mike Helfrich and Harry O'Cull, recreation leaders.

Members voted to help with the Easter Lily Tag Day and to cover Marion Township on the Cancer Drive. They also renewed their pledge of $5.00 to the Awards program of the Fayette County Junior Fair.

Advisor Mrs. Robert Klever held a discussion of project books.

The next meeting will be April 9, with Eddie Rose, Mike Helfrich and Bill Steen in charge of refreshments. A program on sheep feeding will be conducted by G. B. Vance.

Refreshments were served by Larry and Gary Hott and David McKee. Recreation was ballroom dancing.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Maynard Draise, Mrs. George Hott and Mrs. Vincent McKee.

SCIZZORS WHIZZORS

Ruth Ann Arnold was elected club photographer and Reva Fackler her assistant at a Scizzors Whizzors 4-H meeting in the home of Mrs. Walter Hyer.

Ruth Ann Arnold used Palm Sunday as the topic for devotions. Carol Hyer gave the secretary - treasurer's report.

Seven members answered the roll call by giving their opinion of the chemise.

Carol made a motion that the club hold a bake sale. The motion was carried. The club appointed Therese Rhode to find a place to hold the sale.

Mrs. Hyer told the girls the officers and advisors conference will be held at 7:30 p. m. April 8 in the high school auditorium.

The assignments for the next meeting include reading pages eight through 10 inclusive in the "Well - Dressed 4-H Club Girl". Carol Hyer and Therese Rhode are to give a demonstration on pattern-making. Meeting closed with the recitation of the pledge of allegiance and the 4-H Pledge.

Reva Fackler gave a health report on Cancer. The remaining girls asked questions concerning the subject. Bev Horney served refreshments.

Therese Rhode, Ann Waters and Bev Horney made pie at the Saturday workshop. Easter favors for the hospital were worked on.

State Ruling Given On Judges' Pay

COLUMBUS (AP) — The attorney general has ruled that while Ohio law allows county commissioners to hike the salary of a county judge as much as $1,000 annually, the state's constitution prevents any such increase during an existing term.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe's opinion had been asked by Auglaize County Prosecutor James I. Shaw in the cases of two county judges whose work loads in St. Marys and Wapakoneta had turned out to be greater than anticipated.

In another opinion, Saxbe ruled that county commissioners have an absolute duty to erect guard rails at certain points specified by law, and failure to do so makes the county liable for damages.

Face-Saving Move?

NOGALES, Ariz. (AP) — The Parents - Teachers Assn. called police to its meeting. Members complained of small boys peering through windows of the meeting room "making faces".

AMERICA'S GROWING PAINS—A motion picture story of the development of the United States before, during and after the Civil War is coming to the Fayette Theater Friday. Entitled "Raintree County," the picture was filmed on locations in Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Mississippi. Heading the cast of hundreds (there are 119 speaking roles) are Montgomery Clift, Elizabeth Taylor and Eva Marie Saint.

Toledo's 'Moon Money' Plan May Spread Across Nation

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Science teacher Erwin Feltz read a news story the other day to the effect that American taxpayers would pay a dime each between now and Dec. 31 for space satellites.

"Think what the nation could do," he told his wife across the breakfast table, "if everyone contributed a dime voluntarily and the tax money could be used for other space projects."

The 29-year-old Feltz discussed the idea with his superiors at Washington Township Junior High School, got nots of approval, and launched "Project Moon Money" at the school Tuesday.

In the morning, Feltz used the public address system to describe the project to the school's 1,310 seventh, eighth and ninth-graders. By late afternoon, "Project Moon Money" already had approximately $90 to its credit in dimes, nickels and pennies and even a few bills.

"One boy donated three dollars," Feltz said. "I tried to persuade him to give a smaller amount, but he told me it was his money and he would do what he wanted with it."

Feltz said he and other teachers at the school hope the plan will spread throughout all schools in the nation.

"If the kids come through, maybe the adults will get behind the plan, too," he said. "And with a population of around 170 million, just think of the money that could be raised."

"We think a program like this can help the United States get ahead of the Russians in space and keep ahead," he added.

One problem still ahead of Project Moon Money is what to do with the funds it raises. Feltz is making inquiries to find what governmental agency could accept the money for the space program.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Auto Production Cut 500,000

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry built an estimated 1,244,000 passenger cars in the first quarter of 1958. This was more than 500,000 fewer units than were built in the comparable period of last year.

With the sharp drop in factory output, forced upon the industry to halt mounting inventories at the dealer level, chances of a six-million-unit output this year apparently have completely disappeared. But there still are some among the industry sales chiefs who say 5½ million assemblies still are possible.

At last count, dealer-held cars were close to the 900,000 unit mark—only a few thousand fewer than the record-smashing figure of March 1, 1956.

Tractors Line Up as 'Good Neighbor Policy' Is Exemplified in Eber Community

Charles Wood of Hays Rd. in Eber has a lot of good neighbors.

He says he always knew that, but he freely admits he never had a more graphic appreciation of the neighborly spirit than he does now.

For Wood, who broke his neck in a fall several months ago, was the object Wednesday of one of the most massive manifestations of the neighborly spirit seen in the Eber area for quite some time.

Two organizations — the Eber Parent-Teacher Organization and the McNair Memorial Presbyterian Chapel — got together Wednesday and mustered 26 tractors, more than 30 men, and about as many women to help Charlie get his farm ready for operation this summer. Working together just as hard as they would for themselves, the neighbors got all of Charlie's plowing done for him.

* * *

CHARLIE FELL from a haystack in a pole barn late last fall, broke his neck, and lay flat on his back most of the winter. He'll be all right in a month or so, but he's unable to do heavy work yet, and the plowing season, as any farmer will tell you, is here.

Not to get it done would mean ruin. So the neighbors, largely under the direction of PTO President Bill Thompson, a Wildwood Rd. farmer, got together and celebrated "Charlie's Day" with tractors, hard work, and a lot of noise.

Women of the two groups provided lunch. Altogether, some 75 acres were plowed.

* * *

Air Base Invites Public to Free Gymnastics Show

WILMINGTON — The world famous University of Maryland Gymkana troupe will appear at Clinton County Air Force Base, for two performances at 1:30 p. m., and 8:30 p. m., Saturday.

The show will feature tumbling, hand-balancing, trampoline, juggling and magic and will give everyone in the area an opportunity to see, free of charge, a wide variety of acts that have thrilled millions

It is presented as a public service of the University of Maryland and Clinton County Air Force Base. The public is invited to the show in the Air Base gym.

Ohio Girl Gets Melon

PORT CLINTON (AP) — A watermelon, flown in Wednesday from South America, brightened the waning life of Jean Valance, 13, who underwent an operation for a brain tumor last December.

Turkey Popular Now for Easter Dinner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turkeys are forcing the traditional Easter ham to share top billing on the holiday menu this year.

Supermarket chains and neighborhood groceries are offering the onetime Thanksgiving - only bird alongside smoked and fresh ham as their No. 1 attraction for the holiday weekend. This is partly due to turkey's increasing popularity as a year-round food and partly due to prices.

Hams are more expensive than normal for Easter because buyers bid up slim stocks of porkers. Hog marketings are running about 5 per cent below last year and warehouse supplies on March 1 were off one-third from a year ago. Pork prices may ease for a few weeks now, livestock men say, then climb to a seasonal high this summer before dropping sharply in the fall.

Turkeys, on the other hand, are plentiful.

Some stores are offering higher-priced cuts such as rib roast of beef and sirloin or porterhouse steaks for the holiday. Chuck roast and hamburger are missing for the week.

Butter is down 1 to 6 cents a pound in some areas and egg prices are down 2 to 10 cents a dozen, as predicted, over a wide area.

Best buys among vegetables are carrots, topped beats, turnips and peas

People . . . Places . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

I have a copy of the program and souvenir of the "Washington Fall Fair", held at the Fairgrounds here Oct. 18 and 19, 1911.

It was given to me by Miss Clara Zimmerman, who called my attention to the fact that few of the advertisers in the program are still living, and most of the firms are gone.

For instance on the back is an advertisement of the Peoples and Drovers Bank, capitalized at $150,000 of which Humphrey Jones was president: Duncan McLean, vice president and R. T. McClure, the cashier.

Frank Campbell's pool room was located next to the Engine House. Frank M. Fullerton was advertising insurance. Sauer's Bakery and the Palace theater carried ads, and admission at the Palace was 5 cents.

Tom Sites was the Democratic candidate for mayor, and Harve W. Smith Republican candidate for mayor.

Tom Easton and Sam Terry operated the "Southern Cafe" on North Fayette St. The Washington Meat Market and Larrimer's Laundry, as well as J. A. Smalley's Piano Store (117 West Court St.) were also in the list. Sam J. VanPelt repaired automobiles, motorcycles and carried supplies "in the rear of Murray's undertaking establishment."

C. S. Phillips advertised the Sanitary Barbara Shop, 112 N. Fayette St.

T. W. Marchant and William B. Rogers were candidates for members of the Constitutional Convention.

Smithers Bros., were dealers in all kinds of hard and soft coal. (Citizens Phone 301.)

Others advertisements included: Barchet's Meat Market, 106 W. Court St., Wonderland Theater, Charles Johnson, proprietor; Conn F. Ducey, plumbing and heating; Ramsay's Colonial Theater; George R. Cox and Son, "first class livery and feed stable. Old Baily Stand, S. Fayette St.;"

Moore and Jamison, "Davis" and "Overland" cars, W. Court St.; George M. Black, dealer in fresh and cured meats, corner Court and North Sts. (Both phones).;

P. J. Burke monument Co.; Gem Torsorial Parlors, A. E. Bass proprietor. Passmore Bldg. S. Fayette St.;

Washington Gas & Electric Co. Arcade Livery Barn, V. R. McCoy, proprietor, N. Fayette St.;

J. W. Wilson, roofing, spouting, etc., Corner Court and Hinde Sts.; Odd Barber Shop "The shop where you know you always get satisfaction", George F. Robinson, all kinds of good coal, S. Fayette St.; Snider's Bakery, 231 E. Court St.; the M. Hamm Co., fertilizers. Charles F. Bonham, "Implements, star wind pumps, buggies, buggy repair shop," W. Court St.; Edgar Snyder, insurance; Brownell, produce.

FEW PERFECT LOGS

Recently I saw where quite a number of sizeable trees had been felled and cut into lengths for sawing into lumber.

I was shocked to see that only two of the among eight or ten which had been cut down were solid where they had been cut from the stump.

Decay on a pronounced scale had set in, and most of the logs had pronounced holes at the heart, or at least contained much rotten wood.

With the decreased amount of timber, and more borers and other insects to work on the trees, it is little wonder that so many of them have failed to withstand the onslaught and now show decay.

Recently while driving on Route 38 north of Bloomingburg, I looked back at the Vesey Cemetery on "White Oak Ridge" a quarter of a mile east of the highway at the Arthur H. Finley farm, and recalled the forest that formerly extended back for a half mile and which contained huge white oak trees which produced perfect lumber.

I recall that some of these trees were fully five feet in diameter, and the entire forest contained big trees of various kinds, including burr oak, hickory, elm, ash, red oak, red (or slippery) elm, and a few others.

At that time the woods was full of gray squirrels with a sprinkling of fox squirrels, and it was not long until the fox squirrels had literally killed off the gray squirrels as they seem to have done throughout this area.

PROGRAM OF THE PAST

It is interesting to note the officials of the First Presbyterian Church, carried in a program for Sunday, Sept. 29, 1912. I was personally acquainted with all of them.

At that time the Rev. William Irwin Campbell was the pastor, and during the evening worship hour Miss Jessie Leavell and Mrs. Werter Shoop sang a duet, "I Wait for the Lord."

Ray F. Zaner (who was YMCA Secretary at the time and now lives in York, Pa.) was Sabbath School superintendent; Mrs. S. D. Morgan was president of the Women's Missionary Society; Mrs. J. F. Dennis was president of the Women's Guild; Mrs. Werter Shoop was chorister; Mrs. B. F. Davis, organist, and Jesse Persinger was chief usher.

Members of the Session were: Joseph W. Rothrock, Frank M. Fullerton, Thomas S. Pinkerton, Austin F. Hopkins, H. D. Chaffin, James T. Tuttle, Charles A. Reid and Carey Persinger.

The deacons were: G. W. Blakeley, Frank Johnson, Frank McCormick, Alva M. Bush, William E. Craig, James A. Crawford, John F. Dennis, William A. DeWitt, Horace L. Hadley, L. P. Howell, George Jackson, Elmer A. Klever, Richard S. Quinn, Will Springer, Frank L. Stutson, Theodore M. Ustick and Joseph N. Willson.

Frank McCormick was the church treasurer.

Moving Living Standard Up Is Not Easy

Wages, Taxes, Prices Make Up Eternal Triangle in Home

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The eternal triangle in most homes these days: wages, taxes, prices.

Moving up into a higher income bracket has been the happy lot of many American families in the last 20 years. The majority managed to translate this into a higher standard of living. But it isn't as easy as it sounds.

Taxes have bitten deep into the wage and salary increases. Lately state and local taxes have been rising faster than federal.

And prices have soared so high that the income increases had to be substantial for the family just to stand still in terms of purchasing power.

When anything happens to shrink this income even a little — loss of overtime pay, shorter work weeks, smaller profits from the family store, lowered dividends—the hurt comes quickly.

A married couple with two children who take the usual deductions in computing income returns would have to have a gross income of $6,457 in 1958 to be actually as well off as they were in 1939 earning $3,000.

Federal income and social security taxes took $30 out of gross income in 1939 and will take $772 out of the higher 1958 gross.

More, the loss in purchasing power of the dollar through inflation whittles $2,765 from the $6,457 gross of 1958 in terms of 1939 dollars, based on the consumer price index of the National Industrial Conference Board.

So in terms of the 1939 dollar, the real spending potential of the family with a $3,000 income in 1939 and a $6,457 income today is the same — $2,970.

On the same basis of figuring purchasing power after the double squeeze of taxes and inflation, the family with a $5,000 income in 1939 must get $11,140 this year to come out even. What was left over after federal taxes in 1939 was $4,941—the same figure left over today after the much higher taxes and the huge bit of inflation.

But many families live better today than before the war without having doubled their incomes—although none could if their incomes hadn't gone up at all.

There are several reasons. For one, any index of the cost of living is based on what the average family is presumed to spend on many goods and services. Lots of folks spend nothing on many of these items.

For another, cost cutting manufacturing processes have kept the prices of a lot of today's necessities (1939's luxuries) from rising as much as the general trend of all goods and services.

Ellis Isle Bids All Thrown Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has rejected all bids it received for purchase of Ellis Island in New York Harbor.

Fr rlin F. Gloete, general services administrator, said his agency would continue efforts to sell the island.

The top ofier among 21 received Feb. 14 was $201,000. The government estimates it has invested $6,326,996 in the property.

Floete said none of the bids "was commensurate with the appraised fair market value."

THE TOWN COUNCIL will meet at 7:30 p. m. Monday in the township house. Wilbur Roberts is president.

THE CHRIST VICTORY church, of which Mrs. Lewis Hidy is minister, will have its usual services Sunday morning from 9 until 9:30 a. m. A choral group will sing a number of Easter selections suitable for the Easter season, Sunday School 9:30 a. m. preaching service 1 a. m. and also 7:45 p. m. Sunday evening, and the mid-week prayer service Thursday, evening 7:45 p. m.

MRS. WAYNE BLOOMER was hostess to members of the Kensington Club Tuesday afternoon at her home on West St.

Mrs. John Groff, president, opened with a poem titled "This Is Spring", and all joined in singing the club hymn, "What a Friend".

Mrs. Bloomer presented Easter devotions and reading an article entitled "Controversy".

Mrs. Groff conducted the business session during which the usual reports were given.

The program consisted of readings and recitations by the following members of the society: Mrs. Bloomer, Mrs. Groff, Mrs. Forrest Haines and Mrs. Gordon Lynch.

The meeting closed with the club benediction. During the social hour the hostess conducted interesting contests. A delicious salad course was served. Assisting the hostess was Mrs. Don Thornton.

MR. AND MRS. Lewis Redd entertained the members of Young Paint Farm Council at their March meeting. Robert Milburn was the group chairman. Discussion leader Carl Scott introduced the "Better Schools for Our Children".

During the social hour Mr. and Mrs. Redd served sandwiches, potato chips and coffee.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scott and daugher, Karla; Mr. and Mrs. Rex Bloomer and children, Nikky and Jeffrey, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Milburn and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Daves and family, of Kingston.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Milburn some time in April.

Retired OSU Vet Professor Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Leonard W. Goss, 80, retired professor of veterinary pathology at Ohio State University, died Wednesday in a Winter Haven, Fla., hospital.

When Dr. Goss retired in 1947, university associates estimated that one-tenth of the nation's veterinarians had trained with him. He also owned the Gosswyre Kennels in Columbus, Ohio.

His son, Dr. Leonard J. Goss is veterinarian and assistant director of New York's Bronx Zoo.

The elder Dr. Goss, who lived at Columbus, had been in Winter Haven since February and suffered a heart attack on March 17.

New Boston Seeking Aid for Unemployed

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—New Boston, a town of approximately 5,000 within the corporate limits of Portsmouth, Wednesday asked President Eisenhower and Gov. C. William O'Neill for financial aid for its unemployed.

Mayor Vernal Riffe said the relief burden was growing because of an increased number of jobless, due to curtailment of operations at the New Boston plant of the Detroit Steel Corp. The mill plans to cut employment from 4,000 to 1,500.

The Ocean Frontier

In Another Century, World Must Find Its Food in Sea

By EVERETT S. ALLEN
New Bedford Standard-Times
(Written for The Associated Press)

If the world's population—about 2¾ billion—triples during the next century, and it is expected to, humanity must turn to the oceans for new sources of food to maintain its living standards.

The land masses of the world are being rapidly depleted of basic resources. The sea is still a bulging storehouse, not only of minerals and metals improved techniques could pry from the ocean bottom — but of enormous quantities of foodstuffs.

In terms of food, the sea can actually outproduce the land. A New England harbor, properly cultivated, could produce nine tons of clam meat per acre annually—three times the amount of comparable food an Ohio farmer could produce on one acre.

Eventually, marine scientists say, the oceans may be stirred artificially to bring up nutrients from the bottom so sunlight can get at them and so increase the sea's productivity of food stuffs.

Here's one way in which this process is envisaged:

In most areas, a vertical pipe shoved down into the sea would carry a stream of water either up or down, once it was started, and if uninterrupted would go on indefinitely.

This is because ocean surface water is saltier and, therefore, heavier than deep water, when the two are at the same temperature. As surface water goes down the pipe, it tends to be cooled to the same temperature as the water outside the pipe — but being heavier because of its salinity, it keeps on flowing downward.

It works in the opposite direction. If bottom water is started up the pipe, it tends to get warmer. But because bottom water is slightly fresher it also is lighter than the surface water surrounding it, so it tends to rise and flow out the top of the pipe.

The French government is experimenting with a system of such pipes. In this instance, it is trying to produce fresh water from the ocean by applying the salinity differences to a distilling process. But the operation would serve very well to "stir" the sea for increased food production.

Presently, man is neglecting great areas of the ocean's nutritional potential. Of some 16,000 species of marine life, only a dozen or so are used commercially to any significant extent. Thousands of others, including such unlikely sounding candidates as barnacles, could make valuable contributions.

Some steps toward more intense exploitation of the sea are already being taken. The British are seeking to utilize the nutritional properties of seaweed in commercial quantities. The South Africans have a fish meal project providing an inexpensive protein source for human consumption.

It is possible, marine scientists say, to make money with a fish product selling for as little as 1½ cents a pound; ways could doubtless be found to convert food fish into some form, perhaps like sausage meat, that could be stored and shipped without canning and freezing.

Further, in the ocean, the absence of fences or lines of ownership makes it difficult to introduce the element of systematic cultivation even though this is highly desirable from the standpoint of increased marine productivity.

But it is only a question of time before a marine-minded country in search of cheap foodstuffs will start a large-scale marine agricultural station.

Ohio Striker Total Dips during 1957

COLUMBUS (AP) — There were nearly as many strikes in Ohio last year as in 1956 but far fewer people were affected, Ohio Industrial Relations Director Hugh D. Wait reports.

He said that last year there were 355 work stoppages that idled 150,000 persons for 1.6 million man days. During 1956 which saw the steel strike, 291,000 workers were idled for 4.7 million man days. There were 357 work stoppages in 1956.

During the last three months of 1957 there were 170,000 man days of idleness compared to 406,000 for the corresponding period in 1956.

Only 6.7 per cent of Canada's population will be engaged in agriculture within 22 years, says George Drury, a Windsor underwriter. Present percentage is about 20.

Last Honor Farm Escapee Is Nabbed

ELYRIA (AP) — Robert L. Robinson, 19, of Toledo, was the last of four prisoners to be rounded up late Wednesday after an escape from the Osborne State Honor Farm.

Robert R. Moneyham, 21, and Leroy E. Blair, 22, also of Toledo and Richard Hoffman, 23, of Columbus, were captured shortly after the quartet fled early Wednesday in a guard's car. All were brought to the Lorain County jail.

Bank Robber Held

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Glenn Williard Dolvin, 30, will be returned to Youngstown, Ohio, Sunday to face bank robbery charges. He was arrested here last Thursday with $18,500 stuffed in a laundry bag in his car.

Air Force Makes It Easy for You To Give Data on 'Flying Saucers'

This ingenious three-dimensional drawing, says Air Intelligence, will enable you to show the path of any object in the sky, if you imagine yourself in the center of it. Varying width of lines shows intensity of object, and time intervals show its speed. Western side of sky is indicated by dotted lines, eastern by straight lines. If you stare at this drawing a little while, it takes on the shape of an inverted bowl.

An enlargement of the above diagram is furnished by Air Force.

This sketch shows how to use diagram. Place an "A" at point where you first saw object; a "B" at point where it was last seen.

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

DAYTON — If you see a "Flying saucer," how would you report it?

The Air Technical Intelligence Center of the United States Air Force here at the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base has developed material that is "a must" for any serious saucer sighter, and although few members of the general public seem to know it, there definitely is "a right way" to report such observations to the experts.

The places to report a flying saucer or any unidentified flying object (UFO), as they say officially, is to the Center here and to the Aerial Phenomenon Research Organization, Almagordo, N. M.

They now are sending such volunteer observers a formidable 10-page questionnaire and a UFO Observers' Instruction Sheet, complete with diagrams which are aimed at making it easy to turn in all the facts, including such technicalities as the elevation from zero to zenith, the bearing or azimuth, and the course of the object across the sky.

• • •

THE TROUBLE, according to experts, is that most people see a saucer when they least expect it, and have not equipped themselves in advance to do the kind of spotting job that will help in a scientific rundown of the phenomenon. So this article could help.

The questionnaire is a kind of checklist intended to make it easy for people to be specific as to the exact time, place and conditions when the object was seen.

It asks how long you saw it, what was the condition of the sky; whether it was daylight, twilight or dawn; if the object was brighter than the background sky or darker; whether it moved in front of or behind a cloud and how many there were.

You are asked to hold a pinhead, dime, quarter, half-dollar, baseball, grapefruit or basketball at arm's length, and estimate how the UFO compared with it in size. Were the edges fuzzy or blurred, like a bright star, or sharply outlined?

• • •

IF YOU WERE driving or flying, in what direction and how fast were you moving; were you looking through glass, and how fast did the object seem to be going?

Room is left for you to write your story in your own words, and to exercise whatever artistic talents you may have in making a drawing, however crude. Some ingenious sketches are included to help you plot its position and course.

"We would like for you to imagine that you could construct the object you saw," says the questionnaire. "Of what type material would you make it? How large would it be, and what shape would it have?"

Finally, you are asked point blank: "In your opinion what do you think the object was and what might have caused it?" That gets right down to the nubbin of the question, of course.

By providing this machinery for reporting on saucers, the Air Force wants it understood that it is not saying necessarily that there is such a thing as a saucer.

• • •

QUITE THE OPPOSITE, it has been able to explain all but about ¾ per cent of about 6,000 reports since the generally-accepted first sighting on June 27, 1947, as balloons, unconventional aircraft, astronomical phenomena such as "falling stars," birds, searchlights and downright hoaxes.

However, it wants it understood also that it is not taking any chances, and to that end has arranged for Dr. J. Allen Hynek, professor of astrophysics and astronomy at Ohio State University, to act as chief scienfit consultant.

The reassurance also is held out that "there is no evidence that the 'unknowns' were inimical or hostile," or that they were "interplantary space ships."

On the other hand, the Air Force also has found that " a high percentage of reports have been submitted by serious people, mystified by what they had seen and motivated by patriotic responsibility."

So the Air Intelligence Center is trying to make it easier for more accurate reporting, so it will have more to go on.

Work on the St. Lawrence Seaway will be completed in 1959, allowing larger size ocean vessels to load in ports in the Middle West.

Rock 'n' Roll Diet Said Hard on Kids

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — "A rock 'n' roll diet is making an under-nourished race out of millions of teen-agers," says the president of the New Jersey Farm Bureau.

Herbert W. Voorhees told a Rotary Club meeting that soda pop, hot dogs and potato chips continue to be the luncheon among millions of the high school crowd.

"It's no wonder we find our boys making poor showings in physical exams for Army service and scores of our teen-age mothers seriously affected with childbirth complications because of malnutrition," he declared.

Louisiana Mission To Get White Priest

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The small Roman Catholic mission of St. Cecilia's at nearby Jesuit Bend scene of a racially tinted row more than two years ago, will reopen Sunday for Easter services. A white priest will say mass.

The mission, about 20 miles south of here, was closed after parishioners objected to a Negro priest, the Rev. Gerald Lewis, assigned there Oct. 2, 1955.

Well, She Certainly Waited Patiently

CHICAGO (AP) — A 70-year-old Evanston woman figures her husband who left her nearly 25 years ago after 11 years of marriage, doesn't plan to come back.

Mrs. Dorothy Hoover told Superior Judge John A. Scarbaro she had hoped for husband Jesse's return but now had given up and wanted a divorce. It was granted.

Bill Skowron Does OK as Yank Cleanup

Stengel's Number One Worry-Wart Batting .451 in Spring Prep

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It seems Bill Skowron always starts to worry whenever he's pushed into the cleanup spot in the New York Yankees' batting order during the regular season. So Manager Casey Stengel decided he'd put him there in the spring exhibitions and let him get his worryin' over early.

If Skowron still is worrying, this kind of worry could put the guys who make the tranquilizers out of business.

The Moose—not Mickey Mantle—leads the American League champs with a .415 batting average, seven home runs and 20 RBI. He rapped two homers again Wednesday as the Yanks beat Washington 7-5.

Skowron helped push Yankee starter Johnny Kucks into a 6-0 lead with his slam off Camilo Pascual in the second. But the young righthander blew most of it and the score was 6-5 after the fifth when Neil Chrisley drove in three with a double. The Moose got a solo homer in the ninth off Bud Byerly.

Best pitching was at Sarasota, Fla., where Boston beat Pittsburgh 2-0. Both runs were scored in the eighth on a pair of wild pitches by rookie southpaw Joe Gibbon. The Red Sox had just one hit, Dor Buddin's first inning single, through seven off Ron Kline and Bob Smith. Ike DeLock and Leo Kiely combined for the shutout for Boston.

Jim Bunning went all the way for Detroit and allowed Cincinnati only three base runners over the last six innings, but by then it was too late. Gus Bell homered in the first and Smoky Burgess slugged one with a man on in the second to beat the Tigers 3-2. Brooks Lawrence, Charley Rabe and Jay Hook shut off the Tigers with five hits.

The Tigers bought outfielder Stan Palys from the Redlegs for an undisclosed price. This may mean Cincinnati has decided to go with outfielder Vada Pinson, the rookie pheenom up from Class C. But also it might mean the Reds are ready to swap Burgess for an established outfielder.

Philadelphia caught up late on Harry Anderson's eighth-inning homer, knotted a Dodger run in the 12th and finally won 4-3 in 14 innings on a bases-loaded single by Willie Jones. Shortstop Andre Rodgers scored a two-run homer in the ninth that gave San Francisco a 9-8 win over Baltimore.

The Chicago Cubs whipped Cleveland 8-2, scoring three in the first two innings off Mike Garcia, and socking away four in the ninth off Hal Woodeschick on Bob Speake's homer and Lee Walls' bases-loaded double.

Kluszewski Called Key to Pirates

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Ted Kluszewski, a hunk of muscle with a slipped disc, is THE Pittsburgh story this spring.

If big Klu can play regularly, the Pirates can hope for better things. If his back acts up, the cellar door is open.

The Pirates went into the Kluszewski situation with eyes wide open. Desperate for home run power to team with Frank Thomas, they decided to gamble on Ted's aching back. It was a calculated risk.

For almost a month Kluszewski did nothing but swing a bat and run. He was satisfied with the first reaction but still uncertain about his long range future. Even if he can open the season, there always is the danger of trouble at any time.

"Our team has no trouble hitting. Its only trouble is fielding," Manager Danny Murtaugh tells camp visitors. By "our team" he means big Klu, who can't bend freely for ground balls and low throws.

"We have a lot of IF's," said Murtaugh. "The big one, of course, is Kluszewski. Then there is Roberto Clemente. He had a bad back last year but claims to be completely recovered. Another 'IF's is our pitching after Bob Friend, Ronnie Kline and Vern Law. And we have to get some punch to go with Thomas."

If Klu plays, Thomas probably will be on third. The handy Thomas hit .290 last year. Bill Mazeroski, (.283) due back from the Army this week on one of those six-month deals, will be at second with Dick Groat (.315) at short.

Gene Freese (.283) is available for third if Thomas has to go to first.

Bob Skinner (.305), a much improved hitter, will be in left field when Bill Virdon (251) in center and Clemente (.255) in right. John Powers .294 at Columbus with 29 homers) will be a valuable left handed swinger and Ramon Majias (.275) will back up Skinner as a righthander.

Hank Foiles (.270), wearing contact lens for the first time, figures to be the No. 1 catcher.

The pitching side is weak after Friend (14-18), Law (10-8) and Kline (9-16) as starters and Elroy Face (4-6) in the bullpen. Murtaugh hopes to make a fourth starter out of Benny Daniels (17-8 at Hollywood). Bob Smith (2-4 with the Cardinals and Pirates) and Don Gross 7-9 with Cincinnati) are the only possibilities for a lefthanded starter.

Last year the Pirates finished in a seventh-place tie with Chicago, 33 games back.

Venturi, Snead Said Favorites

86 in Starting Field For Annual Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Ken Venturi is a young man with a mission in the Masters Golf Tournament, but the question is: Is he too eager?

"That is the danger," Byron Nelson, Ken's long-time tutor, said today, prior to the first-round tee-off.

"Venturi is playing beautifully. He is hitting the ball like a rifle shot. He is on fire with determination.

"I only hope he is not too intense. I don't think he is. But he is dying to win this tournament."

Winning the Masters title has been a driving ambition of the good-looking 26-year-old San Franciscan since he blew it with a last-round 80 two years ago, when Jack Burke Jr. won.

"I aged 20 years in those four hours," Venturi said. "Ever since that day every shot I have made has been aimed at redeeming myself."

Venturi and Sam Snead have been tabbed cofavorites at 4-1 in an unofficial "book" which has spread over the 6,980-yard Augusta National course.

Venturi is the new hotshot of the rugged professional tour, leading money winner, victor in three winter tournaments and one of the most respected craftsmen among the pros themselves.

Snead is the ageless wonder from the Virginia Hills, at 46 still a supurb athlete with a flawless swing who drives the ball like a cannon blast. He has won more golf tournaments and probably more money than any man alive but he is still followed by the ghost of dubbed putts and missed opportunities.

The starting field numbers 86 and includes most of the golf masters of the world. Seven countries in addition to the United States are represented.

Bunning Continues Serving Home Runs

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers' Jim Bunning, who set a club gopher ball record last year while winning 20 games, relapsed into his old habit Wednesday.

In losing a 3-2 decision to Cincinnati, he served up pitches that Gus Bell slammed out of the park with the bases empty and that Smoky Burgess socked for a homer with one man on base.

Bunning, who yielded 33 homers last season, held the Redlegs to five hits in becoming the first Tiger pitcher to go the route.

Drill Team Guests At Hoop Banquet

Home - cooked food, a dance, and an exhibition by the Dayton Black Hawks all-girl drill team, will highlight the Bloomingburg High School basketball banquet to be held in the school April 11 under the auspices of the Bloomingburg Parent - Teacher Organization.

"Jeffersonville called theirs 'The Banquet of Champions,' so maybe we should call ours 'The Banquet of Next Year's Champions!'" Bloomingburg Coach Ev Rudolph quipped, in announcing plans.

Malcom Kelley, Bloomingburg English teacher, will be toastmaster, and Rudolph will present letters to the regulars on varsity, junior high and reserve teams. Principal G. H. Biddle will give a brief talk.

Dinner is set for 6:30 p. m., and will be served by women from the Bloomingburg Methodist Church. The Black Hawks will present their show at 8:30 p. m.

The dance, sponsored by the Fayette County Job's Daughters group, will begin at 9 p. m. Tickets are $1.25 each.

Jeff Aiming for Diamond Crown

JEFFERSONVILLE — A District Championship for the Jeffersonville High School baseball squad?

It's not out of the question, Coach Bob Hildreth hinted Wednesday afternoon. Though the Tigers' first spring game ended in defeat, the whole Jeff team is cautiously keeping one eye on the sparrow and the other on the crown, Hildreth commented.

The Tigers were runners-up to Ames-Berne — one of the top teams in the state — for the Southwestern Class A crown last year. No one is saying it right out loud this spring, but the whole team carries an air of cautious optimism that indicates they think they might be able even to better that record.

Balanced hitting, experience, good pitching and a lot of work brought the Tigers a 10-0 record in class A competition last fall. Their 13-game schedule for the spring, however, includes the very best in Class A and some teams from Class AA, and could be a good deal tougher.

The boys from Jamestown Greenview proved that Tuesday afternoon when they dropped the Tigers, 4-2. But Hildreth and the boys aren't entirely sure that's a fair indication since neither team had taken any spring practice before their first meeting on the Jamestown diamond.

Ron Wilt, a senior, Jim Cook, a junior and Ed Juillerat, a sophomore, will be handling pitching chores for the Tiger pack this season. Both Cook and Juillerat have had seasoning in the younger boys' Babe Ruth league, and are thus more experienced than most boys their age.

• • •

HILDRETH, himself a catcher in independent amateur leagues, can boast one of the best Class A catchers in the business in Jim Smith. And Smith is ably backed up by Dale Evans. Both boys are seniors.

Larry O'Cull, a sophomore with Babe Ruth experience, will be at first base, while two substantial juniors, John Davis and Harvey Minney, will split second-base chores.

Pint-sized Dave Groves, a junior, is one of the fastest shortstops in the business, Hildreth believes. For third base, the coach can count on either of his two top pitchers, Wilt or Cook.

In the outfield, there's Ronnie Jordan, a senior, Carl Kesner, a junior, Larry Carman, a junior, and Glenr Smith, a sophomore.

Balanced hitting is provided with O'Cull, Wilt, Smith and Carman, all of whom bat left-handed. They, along with their right-handed teammates, last fall accumulated 128 runs to the oppositions' 28.

Second spring game is being played today (Thursday) when the Tigers go to Simon Kenton. District tournament, which runs from May 3 to May 10, involves county champions in an area bounded by Washington C. H., Athens and Portsmouth, roughly. Jeff won the county championship here last fall. Other games on the spring schedule are:

April 8 —Bloomingburg;
April 10 — Simon Kenton;
April 12 — Washington C. H.;
April 14 — Clarksville;
April 17 — Xenia Central;
April 19 — Jamestown Greenview;
April 21 — Chillicothe;
April 23 — At Wayne;
April 25 — At Chillicothe;
April 29 — Sabina;
May 1 —Good Hope.

39 Ohio Lake Areas Ready For Flood of Fishermen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Attendants at 39 Ohio lake areas administered by the parks division of the Department of Natural Resources are getting ready to receive thousands of fishermen.

These lakes are in every section of the state. Here is a list of them and the counties where they can be found:

Buckeye Lake, Licking County; Burr Oak, Morgan; Delaware Reservoir, Delaware; St. Marys, Auglaize; Indian, Logan; Loramie, Shelby; Mosquito Reservoir, Trumbull; Portage, Summit; Alma, Vinton; Rocky Fork, Highland; Adams, Adams; Blue Rock, Muskingum; Cowan, Clinton; Hargus, Pickaway; Findley, Lorain; Forked Run, Meigs; Grant, Brown; Guilford, Columbiana; Harrison, Fulton.

Hocking, Hocking; Hope, Vinton; Hueston Woods, Butler and Preble; Jackson, Jackson; Jefferson, Jefferson; Kiser, Champaign; Knox, Knox; Madison, Madison; Mt. Gilead, Morrow; Pike, Pike; Punderson, Geauga; Pymatuning, Ashtabula; Richwood, Union; Tar Hollow, Ross and Hocking; Roosevelt, Scioto; Scioto Trail, Ross; Stonelick Creek, Clermont; Van Buren, Hancock; Veto, Washington, and White, Pike.

The new 1958 boat and motor licenses are on sale at these lakes.

The Ohio Division of Wildlife says 25 of the 48 ponds in the Delaware Reservoir wildlife area are now open for public fishing. The remainder of the ponds are too shallow for fishing, but are good refuge for breeding waterfowl.

State game protectors and rural mail carriers in 42 northwestern Ohio counties have started a two-week pheasant census project. The mail carriers are volunteers in the annual census and they'll note the number of cock and hen pheasants they see while making mail deliveries.

Results of the census are used in establishing new pheasant programs and in recommending the length of season and daily bag limit that should be set for pheasant hunting.

The state is waging war against pollution at Lake Hope in Vinton County. Authorities say acid water from abandoned coal mines flowing into Big Sandy Run, which feeds Lake Hope, is threatening the fish population again this year. Parks division men are dumping lime into Big Sandy Run at the rate of a ton per day in order to neutralize the acid.

The cost to the wildlife division in its battle against pollution at the lake climbed from $377 in 1953 to more than $2,000 in 1957.

Edward Dooner of Bedford has received notice from Boone and Crockett Club officials that his deer bagged in Geauga County was the third largest whitetail shot on the American continent and entered in the 1956-57 trophy competition.

The club is a nonpartisan group founded by Theodore Roosevelt for the purpose of recognizing outstanding big game trophies. Dooner's trophy, scoring 197⅝ points in the nontypical category, put Ohio on the record books for the first time in the club's history.

Hawks Pamper Bill Russell's Ouchy Ankle

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Boston's chances in the National Basketball Assn. championship playoffs well may rest on Bill Russell's ankle injury.

The 6-10 Russell injured his ankle Wednesday night in the third game of the series between Boston's Celtics and the St. Louis Hawks. St. Louis won the game 111-108.

Russell was removed from the game and taken to Jewish Hospital. X-rays showed his ankle was badly sprained.

Dr. Stan London said, "We'll start working on it first thing in the morning."

He said Russell "might be ready for Saturday and probably will be in the game" April 9 at Boston.

Wednesday night's game, which put the Hawks ahead 2-1 in the best of seven series, was as tough a battle as the first one. The first game was won by St. Louis 104-102. Last Sunday the Celtics won 136-112.

Hawk star Cliff Hagan is still high scorer of the series even though he was held to 18 points Wednesday night. He totaled 70 in the first two games.

Changing The Subject

By JACK AYER

THE GENTLEMAN'S SPORT

Fishing, at least since the days of Izaak Walton, has had the reputation of being the gentleman's sport--or, if a less polite terminology be used, the lazy man's sport. One has visions of comfortable, shaded patches of moss overlooking gentle meandering streams, where men of all ages and classes take refuge in search of a single solace: relaxation. One remembers the stories of the barefoot boys of fiction (and seldom of fact) who, bedecked in straw hat and raggedy breeches, carried their twig poles with cork floaters and string to the spot where the truant officer could not find them.

But we have always had the impression that fishing, in any respectable form, is hard work. We never met a fisherman (and we allow for the fact that they have no reputation for honesty) who would admit to partaking of the above-listed activities. In each, rather, we are told of the long hours spent preparing bait and equipment, the endless treks to find a proper spot to fish and then the hours of frustration as fish stay away from the proferred bait.

Anyhow, no matter how hard or how easy, the fishermen certainly come out in droves. Dave Krupla, county game protector, reports that the present burst of warm weather has "brought them out in great numbers." Bass, bullheads and crappies seem to be the only items available, but they certainly draw the audience.

Warm weather makes the fish bite, of course, and Krupla observes that Dave Roe, for one, was successful in hauling in a 19-inch bass over last week-end. He's probably not the only one, but it was the only story we've picked up so far.

Our real sympathies, however, go not to those who came out last weekend but to those who have been following the creek beds all along. The thought of all the work of fishing in some of the cold, damp weather we have had this winter really makes us wonder if it's all worth it. Brr!

Tebbetts Silent On Big Problems

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs broke camp here today and Manager Birdie Tebbetts still has nothing to say about two major problems—his right fielder and his starting pitchers.

In right field it was a question of whether Tebbetts will go with the 19-year-old rookie Vada Pinson or whether he'll platoon Bob Thurman and Pete Whisenant.

It seemed definite that Tebbetts will have Brooks Lawrence, Bob Purkey and Harvey Haddix as three of his starting pitchers but from there on the choices wavered among Hal Jeffcoat, Bob Kelly, Joe Nuxhall, Charley Rabe and Tom Acker.

Bud Smith Handed NBA Suspension

RACINE, Wis. (AP)—Battered former lightweight champion Wallace (Bud) Smith was pulled out of the ring by the National Boxing Assn. Wednesday, the 29th birthday of the Cincinnati fighter who said, "I can't believe I was ever champion."

The action was announced by NBA President Gillie Jackson of Racine who said, "It's just the humane thing to do."

The suspension came less than 24 hours after Smith was hammered into submission by little-known Gomero Brennan. It was the 11th straight licking for Smith who was knocked out in six of the bouts.

New Officers Installed by VFW Post Here

G. E. Bainter is the new commander of the O. E. Hardway post of Veterans of Foreign Wars here.

He and the other officers, all but one of whom were re-elected at a previous meeting, were installed in ceremonies held in Memorial Hall Wednesday night.

Don Fowler, the retiring commander, was the installing officer.

Going back into the same offices they held last year were Ed Bandy, senior vice commander; Richard Dawes Jr., junior vice commander; Darrell Woods, Chaplain; James Matson and Robert Tillett, trustees; and Frank Newland, post surgeon. Wayne Newton took office as a trustee for the first time.

Regular post meetings are held the first and third Wednesdays of each month in Memorial Hall. The post's club rooms, however, are on the second floor of the Passmore Building, Court and Fayette Sts., above the Ross Dairy Bar.

The post had 107 members last year, the new commander said, and at the start of the fourth month this year there are 73 on the roster. Bainter noted, however, that "they (eligible veterans) are signing up all the time" as he expressed confidence that the membership will increase.

A membership campaign, he said, is tentatively scheduled for next October.

Congressmen Asking Change In Title Bout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two representatives today threatened congressional action unless one of two Western boxers gets a crack at the world heavyweight title.

Reps. Engle (D-Calif) and Udall (D-Ariz) agreed in a joint statement that the winner of the April 9 Eddie Machen-Zora Folley fight in San Francisco will be the only logical contender for the heavyweight crown held by Floyd Patterson of New York City.

They accused Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, of refusing to let the champion fight either Machen or Folley. They called it "Eastern city slicker tactics."

Machen, undefeated in 23 fights, is from Redding, Calif. Folley, with only 2 losses and 1 draw in 42 bouts, is from Chandler, Ariz.

"If big Eastern promoters continue putting a freeze on small-town Western fighters, we believe Congress should act to prevent such monopolistic conduct," the Engle-Udall statement said.

Unless there is such a title fight, the congressmen said, they will prepare legislation "to set up bona fide national standards and a national supervisory commission which will result in real national championships — not regulated titles controlled by a few New York manipulators."

2 More Boys Selected for All-Star Tilt

TROY (AP)—Bobby Greene of Akron South and Ralph Snead of Ironton have been named to play in the first annual Ohio All-Star high school basketball game here June 20.

Green, a 6-foot, 1-inch, 170-pounder, is the first to be selected for the North team which will be coached by John Broski of Cleveland East Tech and Dan Baker of Wayne County's Northwestern, state Class AA and Class A champs, respectively.

Greene averaged 18.2 points a game this season, scoring 362 points.

Snead is the second player named to the south squad. Middletown's Jerry Lucas was the first member chosen.

Snead, who is also 6-foot-1, set an all-time Ironton scoring record of 426 points this past season for an average of 23.6 per game.

The South squad will be directed by Middletown Coach Paul Walker and J. Franklin Miller of Pleasantville, state Class AA and Class A semifinalists, respectively.

The game, to be played at Hobart Arena here, will climax a two-day clinic. Both the clinic and the game are being sponsored by the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn.

Bearcats To Play In Dixie Classic

CINCINNATI (AP) — The University of Cincinnati, which won the Missouri Valley Conference basketball championship in its first year in the loop, will play a 26-game schedule next season including an appearance in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N. C.

The schedule, announced Wednesday night by Coach George Smith at the annual basketball banquet, calls for the usual home and home arrangements with all Missouri Valley Conference opponents and the annual tilts with Xavier, Miami and Dayton.

The Dixie Classic Tournament will have UC playing with North Carolina, Duke, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, Michigan State, Yale and Louisville.

Crime Movies Given Study

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Is there too much crime in movies?

The question arose last week when FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover appealed to the film industry to soft-pedal films glorifying crime.

Hoover wrote Eric Johnston, head of the movie producers: "As a law enforcement officer, I am deeply concerned by an apparent trend in the motion picture field . . . The matter relates to motion pictures which traverse the bounds of common decency and result in the glorification of the gangster and his elevation as a false idol for American youth. . . ."

The "trend" was caused by the amazing success of the Mickey Rooney film "Baby Face Nelson." But the producers' association says only two films are now slated to follow in Nelson's bloody footsteps.

One is "Machine Gun Kelly," now completed. The other is "The Bonnie Parker Story," in production. Both come from an independent company. There has been talk of films on Pretty Boy Floyd and others, but none has materialized.

A spokesman for the production code office told me what is being done about crime pictures.

"We can't stop the making of films about crime," he explained. "The code revisions of a year ago did away with many restrictions on such matters as kidnaping, dope, tommy guns, etc.

"What we can do is prohibit the sympathetic portrayal of criminals and we are strict about that. Also, we can try to limit excessive brutality—the mass slaughter of citizens with tommy guns etc."

Most of the crime films are made by independents, he pointed out. The code has no control over the quickie makers, yet many of them submit their scrips to the Johnston office. The reason: they expect less trouble with censors the world if they have a code seal.

Cancer Nursing Workshop Set

Nurses Here To Go To Columbus April 9

Service and care, aimed at Ohio's estimated 35,000 cancer patients, will be emphasized at the Central Ohio Cancer Nursing Workshop, to be held at the Neil House in Columbus on April 9, Mrs. James Perrill, president of the Fayette County Unit of the American Cancer Society, announced today.

Dr. Charles A. Doan of Columbus and dean of the School of Medicine of the Ohio State University, will open the all - day program which is built around the theme, "The Cancer Nursing Team in Action."

"The Workshop", said Mrs. Perrill, "is designed to bring to members of the nursing profession the latest techniques in caring for cancer patients and others with long term illness."

Nearly 500 nurses from a 30-county area are expected to attend the session, Mrs. Theodore Knoedler, of Cleveland, cancer nursing workshop chairman and vice chairman of the American Cancer Society's Ohio division, said. Cooperating organizations are: Ohio State Nurses Assn., Ohio League for Nursing, Practical Nursing Assn. of Ohio, and the Ohio Department of Health.

* * *

MEDICAL presentations for specific cancer sites of the body will be made by Dr. Joseph A. Bonta, and Dr. John H. Holzaepfel. Both physicians are from Columbus.

Dr. Bonta will discuss "Broad Aspects of Surgical and Nursing Procedures in Intestinal Cancer." Dr. Holzaepfel's topic will be "Cancer of the Cervix and the Uterus and Its Nursing Problems".

The workshop, first in a series of four regional meetings, is sponsored by the American Cancer Society - Ohio Division, Inc. as an April Cancer Control Month activity in professional education. Registration will be at 8:30 a. m. The workshop will close at 4:00 p. m.

Another feature of the workshop, made possible by contributions to the American Cancer Society, will be the showing of the society's new film, "Time and Two Women".

The film details the experiences of two women who visit their doctor for an examination. It is part of the American Cancer Society's life-saving education program which encourages women to have periodic pelvic examinations.

Registered nurses, public health nurses, practical nurses, nursing students and hospital auxiliary workers, who have not sent in reservations are urged to contact the Fayette County Unit of the American Cancer Society, 518 S. Fayette St., in Washington C. H. The phone number is 2-4041.

Nurses unable to attend the Columbus cancer nursing workshop may make reservations for one of the following: Cincinnati, Sheraton-Gibson Hotel, April 11; Canton, St. Francis Hotel, April 23; Toledo, Commodore Perry Hotel, April 25. Programs will be identical at all Workshops.

Columbus Area Folks Sight UFO

COLUMBUS (AP)—An unidentified flying object sighted over this city Wednesday night brought a wave of phone calls to lawmen.

Police reported motorists tied up traffic in spots by stopping to watch the object.

Eastside residents reported a brightly lighted object, with a long row of windows, swung at a high rate of speed around the east and south sides of the city and disappeared to the west.

Lockbourne Air Force Base spokesmen said they had no planes in the area. However, one fighter was sent up to check the sightings. Airliners bound for here also were asked to check but no aerial sightings were reported.

Judge Studies Appeals From 5 Driving Schools

COLUMBUS (AP)—Franklin County's newest common pleas court judge, Kenneth L. Sater, Wednesday took under advisement the appeal of five driving schools from new regulations laid down by the Ohio Department of Highways.

Judge Sater, who took his oath of office Tuesday, said he would rule "at the earliest possible time." He heard almost 2½ hours of argument in the case.

Burglary Suspect Killed by Police

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two policemen investigating a burglary attempt at a tavern today shot and killed a man identified as John Sedic, 37, of Cleveland.

Patrolman Thomas McNamara said he and Patrolman Anthony Zychowski were on cruiser duty when they spotted a man in the tavern. He fled to a parking lot and was hiding under a parked car, the officers said.

Instead of surrendering, the man began to run, but fell, McNamara said. But when the officer got to him, the man struck him on the arm with a crowbar and took off again, McNamara said. Both officers then fired at the fugitive. He died in a hospital.

Ex-Ohioan Sentenced In California Slaying

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Harold Kelly Middlekauff, 36, formerly of Middletown, Ohio, accused of killing his landlord last Dec. 7 and hiding the body in a canyon near San Bernardino, Calif., has started a sentence of 1 to 10 years in prison.

The prosecution agreed to a reduction of the murder charge to manslaughter. Middlekauff contended he stabbed Beryl Creech in self defense after his landlord made a proposal regarding Mrs. Middlekauff to which the defendant objected.

Grass Fire Extinguished

Burning trash ignited grass in a pasture field on the Walter Thompson farm, Flakes Ford Rd., at 6:50 p. m. Wednesday. City firemen used "fire brooms," especially made for such service to extinguish the blaze. No property damage resulted from the blaze.

Detroit Cops Crack Down On Hoodlums

DETROIT (AP)—Police continued their crackdown on school ground loiterers today after four acts of violence in two days. Two teachers were attacked and three youths stabbed in the outbreaks.

Three youths were held for questioning after Richard Christian, 31, a white teacher at Washington Trade School, was pelted with rocks and roughed up by four young Negroes on the school's playground.

The day before, Mrs. Ethel Tincher, 45, a teacher at Denby High School, was beaten by two youths she found loitering in the halls during class hours. She is white and identified her assailants as white. She said she did not think they were Denby students.

Andrew Jones, 15, was stabbed twice in the back and Robert King, 17, was slashed on the side of the head in a fight with another youth, Eric Roby, 15, in the basement of McMichael Junior High School near downtown Detroit. All are Negroes and students at the school.

Police reported Shelby Hereford, 14, was stabbed in the side and injured seriously. He said he and another boy were playing with knives on the playground at Jacoby School. He identified his companion as Robert Garton, 14. Both are Negroes.

Clarence Sailor, William Chisholm and Thomas Hill, all 18, were arrested for investigation of felonious assault a few hours after Christian reported that four Negro youths attacked him. He said he had sought to question them when they walked into a baseball game he was refereeing. The three youths are not students at the school.

Police Hunt Burglar Who Specializes!

City police are hunting a meat-hungry thief!

That was all that was stolen during two break-ins at the home of Sammy Coil Jr., 542 Washington Ave., according to police reports Thursday.

Mrs. Coil told police at 2 p. m. Wednesday that the first entry into their home was made when the Coils were away in Florida, with entrance being gained through a rear window. About $50 worth of meat was taken from a basement deep freeze.

The house was entered again Tuesday between 4 p. m. and midnight after the Coils had returned from their trip and more meat was taken. No money or other valuables were reported stolen.

Sheriff's Office Being Moved

New Headquarters Now in Jail Building

After today, the Fayette County sheriff's office will be in red brick combined residence and jail just a few steps north of the courthouse.

Sheriff Orland Hays and his deputies were completing the final details of their "operation office move" Thursday morning.

The new office, in two rooms which formerly were a part of the sheriff's residence portion of the building, should be set up completely by Thursday evening, the sheriff said.

Sheriff and Mrs. Hays will continue to occupy the remaining five rooms of the residence part of the building as their home.

While the sheriff and his deputies, including Mrs. Hays who handles much of the office work, were getting settled, movers were busy in the old office, preparing for an expansion of the county engineer's office into the vacated sheriff's office adjacent to it in the courthouse.

Sheriff Hays had used the ground floor office in the courthouse as his base of operations for six years. It was part of the engineer's office before then while the sheriff's office was in a small third floor room of the courthouse.

When sheriff's office was moved to the ground floor, the former third floor office was converted into an office for the court stenographer. The room off the stenographer's office is the Common Pleas Court's jury room.

Part of the sheriff's new office in the residence-jail building has been used for the interrogation of prisoners for more than a year.

Damage Trial In Final Stage

Closing arguments in a $103,000 personal injury damage trial were under way before a jury in Common Pleas Court Thursday.

The action was brought by Amos McCormick against Morton S. Titus as the aftermath of an alleged assault in July of 1956. Both are residents of Washington C. H.

The last witness in the case was heard Thursday morning, and final arguments began at 9:45 a. m. Court recessed for the noon hour after the defense argument had been completed. The plaintiff's closing argument got under way at 1 p. m., and the case was expected to go to the jury by mid-afternoon.

Judge Ferd M. Bader of Hamilton County is presiding over the trial by assignment of Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt.

Incidental information: in Saba, Netherlands West Indies, men are outnumbered about two to one by the women, who are predominantly blue-eyed blondes.

Complete Addresses Required on Mail

Postmaster Clark Wickensimer urges residents of Washington C. H. to see that relatives, friends and business correspondents who send mail matter to the local post office have complete addresses including street and number, or rural route and box number. Prompt delivery of mail addressed simply to "John Doe, Washington C. H. Ohio," or "John Doe, Rural Route, Washington C. H., Ohio" cannot now be assured, according to Wickensimer.

Wickensimer points out that the directory service for ordinary mail has been discontinued for some time, and that it is virtually impossible for clerks to memorize correct addresses for the approximately 16,000 persons served through the local office.

Mail received that is not addressed to a specific street or route number must frequently be held until the correct address is secured. In some cases it must be returned to the sender.

The postmaster added that, besides individual attention to correct addresses, business firms should add a "P. S." to their letters or orders emphasizing the importance of specific addressing of mail.

"Persons here who include complete return addresses on outgoing mail will be aiding this purpose," Wickensimer concluded.

New Martinsburg Service at 6:30 a. m.

Easter services at the New Martinsburg Methodist Church will start at 6:30 a. m. instead of 6 a. m. as previously reported in the Record - Herald.

The services will be in charge of, and conducted by, the church's youth group. The young people also make up the choir, which will provide the Easter music.

The Rev. Harold Hugus is pastor of the Good Hope Methodist charge, which includes the New Martinsburg church, but he will be unable to be at this church for the sunrise services; so the entire program will be presented by the young people.

The Rev. Mr. Hugus, who serves four churches in the charge, will deliver the Easter sermon at the Good Hope church.

Mainly About People

Henry Staab, 422½ E. Temple St., is a surgical patient in Christ Hospital, Cincinnati. His room number is 432.

Mrs. John Forsythe returned Wednesday from Bucyrus where she was called by the recent death of her mother, Mrs. Harry L. Ryland.

Representatives Meet with O'Neill

Rep. Virgil Perrill of Fayette County was among the Republican members of the Ohio House of Representatives who met Thursday with Gov. C. William O'Neill in the executive mansion.

Perrill said the legislators had not been told the purpose of the meeting, but that he assumed the governor would discuss certain legislative matters with the group.

After a similar meeting of the governor and 16 Republican state senators Wednesday, Sen. C. Stanley Mechem (R.-Athens), Senate majority leader, said the governor told the group he was retaining Charles M. Noble as his secretary for highways because the state will spend 10 times more on highway construction during the first half of 1958 than in the same period in recent years.

After the meeting Thursday, which was called for 11 a. m., Perrill said, the representatives were to remain at the executive mansion for lunch with the governor.

Car Slightly Damaged While Being Parked

Misjudging how close she was to a parked car when coming to a stop before backing into a parking place, Mary E. Johnson, city, damaged the right side of the auto she was driving. The parked car, owner unknown, was not damaged. The mishap was the only one in the city during the past 24 hours. It occurred on E. Court St. north of Fayette at 11:50 a. m. Wednesday.

DALLAS (AP)—A horseback Easter egg hunt will be held Saturday at a farm on the Dallas outskirts. Mrs. W. Roy Hastings, owner of the farm, said children will find eggs in trees.

4-H Club Activities

PROGRESSIVE FARMERS

The Wayne Progressive Farmers 4-H Club set the prices for the food to be served at the fish fry the club is sponsoring in Wayne Hall, Good Hope, Friday when they met in the hall Wednesday night.

Serving of fish sandwiches, potato salad, baked beans, pie and coffee — enough for a complete supper—will start at 5 p. m.

Mothers of the club members will be the cooks.

George Garinger, president, reminded all the Future Farmers of their duties and asked them for their views before the prices were set.

The supper is sponsored to raise money for the club treasury.

THIMBLE SISTERS

First meeting of the Thimble Sisters 4-H club was held at the home of Mrs. Lucas.

Officers were elected as follows: Paulette Pennington, president; Joy Lucas, vice-president; Mary Anne Hackett, secretary; Mary Jane Limes, treasurer; Barbara Bryon, news reporter; Ann McDonald, program chairman; Judy Lundberg, health and safety leader; Edith Bach, recreation leader.

It was agreed to have meetings the second and fourth Monday of each month. The amount of dues has not been decided

After the girls decided what projects they would take, and refreshments had been served, the meeting was adjourned.
